BRITISH TAXPAYERS HAVE TO SHOULDER ADDITIONAL BURDEN

Chancellor of Exchequer Announces Increase in Income Tax of Threepence—Additional Estimated Expenditure for National Defence Makes Higher Taxes Necessary

LONDON, April 21 (CP).—Critics who had confidently predicted that the income tax would remain unchanged were confounded today when Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced an increase of threepence in the pound as he introduced the 1936-7 budget in the House of Commons.

This increase was one of the main features of a budget which set aside the sum of £20,000,000 for supplementary estimates for the army, the navy and the Royal Air Force.

Mr. Chamberlain budgeted for a surplus of £484,000 at the end of the year. The surplus for the year ended last March 31 was £2,941,000.

HIGHER TEA TAX

Higher taxes on tea and on imported lager beer, and retention of the duty on key industries were outstanding taxation increases. They were made necessary by the increase in estimated expenditure of £797,897,000. Total expenditure last year was £749,979,000.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer told an intently-listening House that estimated revenues for the coming year were £708,381,000. Actual revenues for 1935-6 were £752,920,000.

Mr. Chamberlain announced that the income tax would be raised threepence above the present statutory rate of four shillings and sixpence in the pound. At the same time, however, he said the rebate of assessment for married people would be increased from £170 to £180, and the rebate for children from £50 to £60.

SWEETENED THE PILL

Opinion in the lobbies of the House tonight was that the Chancellor of the Exchequer had cleverly contrived to give back to the middle class taxpayer a portion of what the Government takes away from him. The rise in the income tax was unpleasant, but the accompanying rebates were held to sweeten the pill.

SAYS ITALIANS STILL FAR OFF

Ethiopia Denies Invaders Are Within 200 Miles Of Addis Ababa

ADDIS ABABA, April 21 (AP).—Italy's army is still nearly 200 miles away from this almost deserted capital, the Ethiopian Government claimed tonight.

Confirmed reports disclosed the primitive and precipitous highway from Dessye, a town now in the hands of the Italians, is still practically clear of the European invaders.

(The Addis Ababa correspondent of the British Exchange Telegraph Agency reported to London that an Ethiopian infantry column had reached an Italian airdrome northwest of Dessye and burned nineteen Italian airplanes and the entire gasoline supply.)

MAY PULL SURPRISE

There were indications Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander, might attempt to cross up Emperor Haile Selassie's defence plans by a surprise advance on Addis Ababa from the east or southwest.

Unconfirmed reports reached here of a fierce battle north of Addis Ababa, but were later discredited when the Government disclosed it had communicated by wireless and telephone with distant towns on all possible routes of approach to the capital, including Ankober and Hawash.

PRESSING FORWARD

ROME, April 21 (AP).—The "Hell on Wheels" column of Italy's southern army pressed forward more than sixty-five miles today as Premier Mussolini, celebrating the 2,698th birthday of Rome, declared "Our ship is arriving in port with all sails flying."

GOLD SUPPLY DIMINISHING

Little Expansion of Italy's Campaign Predicted Due To Heavy Cost

GENEVA, April 21 (AP).—Downcast by failure to clear a road to East African peace, the League of Nations tonight looked on Italy's steadily diminishing supply of gold as a possible deterrent to much further extension of her campaign against Ethiopia.

The expense of the war, coupled with sanctions, said a communique issued by the League, has reduced the country's gold supply with remarkable rapidity.

Experts of the committee on sanctions, examining reports from many countries, estimated that between last October 20 and the end of March, this year, the Bank of Italy had lost 105,300,000 gold dollars in foreign assets. This is nearly half the 227,200,000 gold dollars it had in October.

EXPORTS DWINDLING

Italy's exports of goods to thirty countries also dwindled sharply after sanctions went into effect. In November, 1935, said the communique, Italy exported to these countries goods worth 17,030,000 gold dollars; in December, 11,270,000; in January, 6,520,000, and in February, 5,860,000, "including countries which did not apply sanctions."

The League's campaign for conciliation in Africa was dropped in an atmosphere which bespoke the conviction of League officials that Geneva's position had been made exceedingly difficult. The council will not meet again, under present plans, until its next regular session on May 11.

Making Provision For Credit Unions

FREDERICTON, April 21 (CP).—To make provision for the establishment of credit unions among the primary producers in New Brunswick, Hon. A. C. Taylor, Minister of Agriculture, introduced a bill in the Legislature. Such credit unions will be incorporated for the two-fold purpose of promoting thrift among their members and creating sources of credit for their members at legitimate rates of interest.

COMMANDER NAMED FOR BISLEY TEAM

OTTAWA, April 21 (CP).—Lieut.-Col. N. D. Dingle, officer commanding the Calgary Highlanders, will command Canada's 1936 Bisley team, it was announced today by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association, and Major K. M. Holloway, Royal Canadian Regiment, Toronto, will be adjutant.

Ottawa Without Power to Grant Provincial Loans

Premiers Pattullo and Patterson Seeking Financial Aid From Federal Government—Statutory Authority to Give Aid Lacking Expiration Of Relief Act—Situation Complicated

OTTAWA, April 21 (CP).—Two Western Premiers discussed with Finance Minister Dunning today the vexed problem of Dominion-Provincial finances which, with the expiration of the 1935-36 relief legislation on March 31, are in the position where no statutory authority exists for loans to provinces from the Federal treasury.

Premier W. J. Patterson, of Saskatchewan, and Premier T. D. Pattullo, of British Columbia, both of whom need assistance in meeting Provincial bond maturities within the next month, conferred with Mr. Dunning. Mr. Patterson has a $2,000,000 issue due May 1, and British Columbia a $3,500,000 issue maturing May 15.

MAKES NO PROVISION

The 1936-37 relief legislation, now being considered by the House of Commons, does not make any provision for loans to Provinces other than those required for unemployment relief. Previous relief bills contained authority enabling the Government to take any emergency steps.

Finance Minister Dunning's proposed loan council system of operating Dominion-Provincial financing, if adopted by the borrowing Provinces, would have enabled the Federal Treasury to proceed with loans to the Provinces under certain conditions.

Premier Aberhart of Alberta was first to refuse these conditions and a loan was refused him in March, resulting in that Province default-

ROOSEVELT MAY VISIT OTTAWA

U.S. President Hopes to Accept Governor-General's Invitation in June

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP).—Hope for a visit to Canada was held out today by President Roosevelt in acknowledging an invitation from the Governor-General of the Dominion, Lord Tweedsmuir.

Mr. Roosevelt said last week that his future plans hinged on the conclusion of work on Capitol Hill, including his long-scheduled visit to Texas and Arkansas centennials the first week of June. In a White House statement today it was said Mr. Roosevelt "is not yet certain" whether he would be able to accept the Canadian invitation.

It was believed by those close to the executive that if Congress adjourned by early June, the President would swing northward after visiting the Southwest and visit Ottawa. This would be during the week when the Republican National convention is meeting.

RELIEF BILL IS BEFORE HOUSE

Provinces Unable to Obtain Usual Grants Until Federal Measure Passed

OTTAWA, April 21 (CP).—Another step towards restarting the Federal relief machinery was taken by the House of Commons today when it passed the Government's general relief legislation through committee stage. Third reading was delayed until tomorrow.

The relief machinery has been bogged down since the end of March, when legislation passed by the Bennett Administration lapsed. Since then there has been no authority to pay money to the provinces or other agencies.

It may be another week before the full machinery is in operation again. It will be necessary to pass the Relief Bill and also the Appropriation Bill of $75,000,000 or $80,000,000 expected to be introduced tomorrow or Thursday.

The provinces were not paid the usual relief grants for April, so they probably will receive cheques for April and May at the same time.

Jam of Ice Forming In Athabaska River Makes Flood Threat

Residents Leaving Houses in Low Land of McMurray in Alberta—Solid Wall of Water Behind Fourteen Feet of Ice

EDMONTON, April 21 (CP).—Athabaska River flood waters, carrying huge cakes of ice, were backing up into the Clearwater River tonight at the rate of fifteen miles an hour and had carried away several houses at McMurray, Alta., 280 miles north of here, radio dispatches from McMurray said.

The Athabaska River had formed an ice jam at the mouth of the Clearwater River. After several hours, the jam broke toward the rear, as a result of tremendous pressure on the face, and the ice was whirled back up the Clearwater [illegible] leaving other houses on low land. The flood took down telegraph lines. Practically every resident was out watching developments. It was considered unlikely the flood would reach the main part of the town, a busy aviation centre in Winter and Summer.

Canadian Airways had no word of the safety of their airplanes.

Randolph Bruce May Serve Second Term as Governor

OTTAWA, April 21 (CP).—An early announcement is expected of the appointment of a successor to William Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, and it is understood the Government is considering the possibility of obtaining Hon. Robert Randolph Bruce, who served one term in that office from 1926 to 1931.

PACT UNDER SHARP FIRE

Cahan Says Canada Lost Face by Improvident Trade Treaty

OTTAWA, April 21 (CP).—In the language of the East, Canada lost face by its improvident trade bargain with Japan, Hon. C. H. Cahan, former Secretary of State, warned the House of Commons today.

Canada, he said, "signed on the dotted line" when Japan said the word. In his judgment "no Canadian Government ever before accepted such humiliating conditions as those demanded by Japan."

The outburst against the Canadian-Japanese agreement which ended a trade war that had been progressing for months, was made when consideration was given to a Government bill amending the Customs Act. It would bring the act into line with the Japanese agreement and also the Canadian-American treaty, particularly in respect of duty valuations.

PASSES SECOND READING

The bill passed second reading without division, but ran into difficulties in committee stage at the evening session. When the discussion seemed headed for several hours, Revenue Minister Ilsley moved it out and the House turned to the National Harbors bill.

The Revenue Minister could see no danger in the Customs Act amendments resulting either from the Japanese or American agreements. In his judgment there was nothing improvident about them.

The chief point at issue was one clause enabling Japanese or American exporters to appeal duty valuations to the Tariff Board with the board's decision final. Conservative Leader Bennett joined Mr. Cahan in arguing this gave the board legislative power, power to overrule the Revenue Minister and Cabinet.

STREAM TAKES LIFE OF CHILD

Four-Year-Old Daryl Darling Drowned While Playing At Nanaimo

NANAIMO, April 21. — Shortly after 10 o'clock this morning Daryl Darling, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Darling, 721 Comox Road, was drowned in the Millstream after having fallen into the water just above the large culvert that passes beneath the E. & N. Railway bridge over the stream.

Evidently the lad was playing with a companion named McMillan, of the same age, when he reached for something in the water. He lost his balance and the current carried him through the culvert and deposited the body in a large pool on the east side of the bridge.

The McMillan boy, after vainly attempting to rescue his companion by wading into the water up to his knees, ran for help. Bert Tait was first on the scene, and he was forced to dive five feet to bring the body to the surface. Dr. Meneely was summoned and Joe Barton, an experienced first aid man, was also quickly on the scene. Later the pulmotor from the mine rescue station was used, but death had already taken place and all efforts to bring back consciousness were futile.

Hundreds of Forest Fires Are Reported

SEATTLE, April 21 (AP).—Major C. S. Cowan, chief fire warden of the Washington State Forest Fire Association, said tonight upwards of 350 brush and forest fires are burning in valuable timberlands in various parts of the state.

Major Cowan said they might spread at any time through entire timber tracks, farms and homes if they were not controlled.

The fires were caused, he said, by the driest April in the history of the Weather Bureau.

One Man Reported Hurt, but Heroic Efforts of Miners Are Maintained—Only Few Feet Separate Trapped Men From Help—Medical Corps Waiting at Pit Head

MOOSE RIVER, N.S., April 22 (CP).—Today's dawn may see two survivors of the Moose River Gold Mine cave-in being carried to safety, but estimates of the time are only estimates at the best while rescue workers have to risk their lives every moment they are burrowing into "live earth."

The collapse of stone, mud and timber that trapped Dr. D. E. Robertson, Alfred Scadding and their companion now dead, Herman Magill, has been followed since April 12 by a slow settling of the unsupported surface, and early today it was said the depression was ten feet lower than it had been after the first crash.

At any time those valiant miners from Stellarton, Caribou and Goldenville, in Nova Scotia, and Porcupine, Ont., might be crushed to death themselves.

A rescue worker was reported injured today by a fall of stone in the dangerous shaft leading to the entombed men. There appeared to be no slackening of the work and the accident was not believed to be serious.

The tense drama of the final stages of the heroic fight maintained by rescue crews in the face of death for the past nine days is depicted in the bulletins flashed from the scene by Canadian Press representatives:

REACH SHAFT

5:53 p.m.—Mines Inspector J. P. Messervey announces rescuers have reached the main operating shaft of the Moose River Gold Mine and are now clearing it out towards the prison of Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding, with positive knowledge they are on the right trail.

6 p.m.—Mines Minister Dwyer, of Nova Scotia, declares only twenty-five feet separate rescuers from the 141-foot level where Robertson and Scadding wait beside the body of Herman Magill, victim of exposure.

7:05 p.m.—A new Draeger crew left the bunkhouse to relieve the crew at the face of the approach; an air of expectancy was noticeable among surface men at the head of the Reynolds shaft.

7:36 p.m.—"Things are looking brighter," says C. H. Ivey, of London, Ont., brother-in-law of Dr. Robertson, his face lighting with a smile for the first time during the day.

CRIBBING COLLAPSES

8:10 p.m.—Old cribwork in the main operating shaft plunges downward, delaying the rescue; carpenters rush in to replace the rotting work with new timber.

NOT CEDING TERRITORIES

Recession of Mandates Not Being Considered by British Government

LONDON, April 21 (CP).—Demands for a pledge that the Government would not consider the recession of any mandated territories were made by Conservative members of the House of Commons tonight on a motion to adjourn.

J. H. Thomas, Secretary for the Colonies, replying, said recent statements on the subject by himself and Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, applied equally to Crown colonies and mandated territories.

NO PRIVILEGES

He emphasized that in the mandated territories Britain possessed no advantages or privileges over other countries. He said if the question of transferring any mandate ever arose it would not be a question for Britain alone to determine, because Australia, New Zealand and South Africa also had mandates.

The British Government, Thomas went on, would not consider handing over any of its mandates unless the whole question as far as Empire mandates were concerned also was reviewed. Beyond that it was not only a question of the Empire; there was also the question of the mandates affecting France and Belgium. Furthermore, the inhabitants must be consulted and their interests considered.

NOT CONSIDERING

Mr. Thomas added that he hoped the House would not expect him to commit the present or any other government to any course of action. "All I will say," he went on, "is that the Government's policy is that we have not considered and are not considering the question, but, if it is raised by others, it will be our duty to consider the circumstances."

Winston Churchill said he regretted the minister had given the impression it was not a closed question. The subject was then dropped.

Jewish-Arab Riots to Be Stamped Out

(Copyright, 1936, by Havas News Agency)

JAFFA, April 21 (CP).—Calm brooded over Palestine tonight as British authorities, spurred by an attack upon a caravan near Duennin, placed military patrols in possible trouble centres prepared to stamp out further disorders.

The death toll in the wake of three days of rioting stood at twenty tonight — sixteen Jews and four Arabs. Local hospitals here and at nearby Tel Aviv and Haifa were crowded with injured.

SENTENCED TO FIFTEEN YEARS

Six Members of Seattle's Police Burglary Ring Sent to Prison

SEATTLE, April 21 (AP).—Superior Judge Chester A. Batchelor today sentenced six members of Seattle's "Bluecoat Burglary Ring" to fifteen years in the penitentiary.

The men sentenced were: Carl Bailey, thirty-four, former patrolman; Charles F. Buchanan, forty-four, former patrolman; William Voltz, forty-six, former patrolman; T. J. Lee, former National Guard sergeant; Charles Marchand, thirty-seven, and Paul C. Latimer, thirty-seven. All six pleaded guilty.

Police arrested ten men after a long investigation and accused them of stealing thousands of dollars' worth of loot in the business and industrial districts over a six months' period last year.

The same sentence already has been imposed on ex-Policemen H. Odell and Harry Nelson, while George A. Adams, former officer, is seeking a new trial.

Mrs. Bailey collapsed and was carried fainting from the courtroom after she had failed in a plea for lenieney for her husband.

SPANISH STRIKE TROUBLE GROWS

More Than 100,000 Affected —Government Announces Subsidy to Workers

MADRID, April 21 (AP).—Strikes involving more than 100,000 workers in various parts of Spain caused the Government increasing concern tonight as measures were sought to compromise labor difficulties.

A thousand workers employed in the Pirelli Automobile Tire Factory at Manresa were thrown out of jobs when the management decided to shut down rather than accede to demands for wage increases.

JAILS ARE FULL

In Corunna the jails were full of Rightists, some 450 having been arrested on charges of engaging in anti-Republican activities.

A general strike, on the heels of one at Almeria called last night, threatened at Huelva after the walkout of 40,000 miners. Almeria's strike spread into various parts of the province.

The Government announced a subsidy would be extended to Andalusian rail workers, who threatened to strike unless bonuses they claimed due them were paid. Rail operators said their income at present did not permit a continuation of the bonus system.

Augusta Detours To Reach Circus

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP). — It took a detour to get Augusta, a giraffe, to a circus at Madison Square Garden today. Police refused to let the high truck carrying her pass through the Holland Tunnel from New Jersey. The truck would have had less than three inches clearance from the roof of the tunnel.

Scores of Citizens Mystified by Sound Of Heavy Explosion

Noise Like That of Big Blast Resounds Through Greater Victoria—Cause Unknown, But Many Theories Are Advanced

ORIGIN of a "mystery blast," felt by residents over a wide area of Greater Victoria at 9:54 o'clock last night, was undetermined at an early hour this morning and inquiries at Port Angeles, Vancouver and Up-Island points failed to bring any information concerning the disturbance.

F. Napier Denison, director of the Dominion Meteorological Observatory on Gonzales Hill, who has charge of seismograph records, could not be reached last night. The wireless station operators reported "two" distinct shocks, resembling explosions, at 9:54 o'clock, but no reports were received from outside official sources.

That the shocks were felt generally over the district were indicated by the flood of telephone calls received at The Colonist office from all parts. The majority of the calls, however, were from Oak Bay, Uplands and a part of Foul Bay region.

ALL SAFE AND SOUND

Called on long distance telephone, Port Angeles reported no disturbance of any nature had occurred

Urges More Support For B.C. Factories From Buying Public

E. G. Rowebottom, Deputy Minister of Industries, Outlines Opportunities in Province for Several Major Industries in Talk to Credit Granters

BRITISH Columbia factories are not receiving sufficient support and encouragement from the buying public, E. G. Rowebottom, deputy minister of industries, told members of the Credit Granters' Association of Victoria in Spencer's dining-room yesterday. The speaker was introduced by Lawrence Mallek.

E. G. ROWEBOTTOM

Appealing to those present to buy more goods manufactured in the province, Mr. Rowebottom declared all service clubs and other public-spirited groups should make their major objective a campaign to popularize British Columbia products. Predicting a bright future for the province, he believed the export trade would treble within the next few years.

In dealing with new industries needed in the province, Mr. Rowebottom said there was room for an iron and steel foundry. Industries that followed production of high-grade pig iron would find export markets in Australia, New Zealand, the Pacific islands, Mexico and the coast of South America, he said.

OPPORTUNITIES GIVEN

Because of high freight rates from Eastern Canada, he believed a glass factory manufacturing bottles, window glass and all kinds of containers would also be a success. There were vast quantities of quartz available, and sand could be imported quite reasonably. He was surprised that a plant to extract turpentine and purified resin had not been established years ago in British Columbia.

Cotton and rayon mills would find plenty of water and the right climate to operate successfully in the province, Mr. Rowebottom stated. He also thought a plant to manufacture knocked-down boat frames and planking cut to measure would prove a profitable enterprise.

Informing those present that the Department of Industries was in close contact with W. A. McAdam, Acting Agent-General at London, and Canadian trade commissioners throughout the world, Mr. Rowebottom said it was a pleasure and privilege to attend to all inquiries from businessmen of the province. He congratulated the Credit Granters' Association on its efforts to improve the credit ratings of hundreds of residents of Greater Victoria.

WORK OF DEPARTMENT

Referring to work of the Department of Industries, Mr. Rowebottom told how $1,250,000 was loaned to budding industries and ex-service men several years ago. He said $200,000 of the sum remained unpaid, but practically all of it would be returned in the future.

He told how the Government assisted a sawmill in a district of which the majority of residents were on relief. The entire booming grounds were constituted a bonded warehouse. The department advanced mill owners $8 per thousand of cedar logs and $12 on pine logs when they were boomed up. The mill yard was also constituted a bonded warehouse, and a further advance of $3 per thousand was made on logs as they went through the mill. The property was covered by fire insurance, the mill taken as security and the bookkeeper bonded. As lumber was sold the receipts were taken to the bank, which in turn issued a draft.

Mr. Rowebottom gave similar details of a cannery, fruit-packing industry, brick plant, potato starch factory and a peat industry assisted by the Government.

He was heartily thanked by Charles G. Banner, president of Credit Granters' Association, and promised to return in the near future to give another address.

OAKEN FONT COVER IS SENT TO YPRES

An elaborately-carved oaken font cover from Memorial Hall at Christ Church Cathedral has been sent back to St. Martin's Cathedral at Ypres, Belgium, Charles Hensley announces.

St. Martin's Cathedral was destroyed in the 1915 bombardment and relics of the church found their way to many parts of the world. Through the Ypres League, headed by Lieut.-General Sir W. P. Pulteney, many of the cathedral furnishings have been returned so that it may be rebuilt as near to its original form as possible.

The original structure was built in the thirteenth century and was one of the most imposing examples of ecclesiastical architecture in Belgium.

PAY CHEQUES MOVING BACK

April Salaries in Provincial Service Will Show Partial Restorations

Some $270,000 of $385,000 deducted annually from Provincial Civil Service pay cheques since 1931 are being restored now for the current fiscal year, it was announced yesterday by the British Columbia Treasury.

April cheques in the service will restore the full rate of salaries for those receiving $1,800 per annum or less, and adds $187.20 a year on higher stipends. There are no retroactive adjustments.

Cuts ranging anywhere from 2 to 20 per cent have been in effect in the service for the last five years, though the basis and degree of the deductions have been changed on several occasions. The present partial restoration was voted by the Legislature at the last session, on the recommendation of the Government.

The change eliminates salary deductions below the $1,800 mark, and makes a flat restoration of $15.60 per month to all ranks receiving salaries above that level.

Cabinet ministers, who shared in the highest deductions, will not benefit from the restoration, it was explained, as their remuneration is set by statute.

BIBLICAL PLAY IS PRESENTED

Metropolitan Church Y.P.S. Produces Interesting Three-Act Drama

Presenting a difficult three-act Biblical play, "The Rock," by Mary P. Hamlin, in the schoolroom of Metropolitan United Church last night, members of the Metropolitan Y.P.S. brought considerable credit to themselves and their director, Rev. J. H. A. Warr. A second performance will be given tonight, commencing at 8 o'clock.

The play revolved around the life of Simon Peter from the time he was called "to fish for men" by Jesus Christ until the Nazarine was crucified.

On two occasions, according to the Bible, Simon Peter forsook Christ. This was shown in the play, which concluded with Peter, after the crucifixion, receiving a new strength from heaven. When Christ was taken by the Romans, Peter denied knowing the Master. Later he received a new divine message to build a spiritual kingdom on earth.

MEMBERS OF CAST

Thomas Wilson carried the exacting role of Simon Peter, and D'Albert Le Marquand showed to advantage as the rich merchant uncle of Peter's wife, who, although an orthodox Hebrew, turned to follow the teachings of Christ. Mary of Magdala, the sinner who was cleansed by Jesus Christ, was portrayed by Miss Hazel McPhee.

Other members of the cast were: Miss Dolly Davis, Simon Peter's wife; Miss Genevieve Knapp, Deborah, mother of Peter's wife; Kenneth Hindson, Titus, a Roman officer; Donald Wheldon (two parts), physician and Greek adventurer, and Melville Vout, servant.

BRITISH TAXPAYERS HAVE ADDED BURDEN

The increase in the tea tax assuredly will be unpopular, observers said, especially among women voters. It was pointed out that many of the women help nowadays to swell the revenue from the tobacco duty.

Taken altogether, the impression prevailing among the members was that the budget might have been considerably more formidable, and that, in any event, it was based upon sound principles. The cost of national defence evoked expressions of dismay from the Labor members, who wondered what further effect the rearmament programme would have on the country's financial condition.

Announcing the new levies, Mr. Chamberlain said: "As the restoration of our defence is in the interests of all, it is only right and fair that all should contribute towards it."

Mr. Chamberlain already had alluded to "the astonishing—the remarkable thing" that the financial year closed with a surplus of £3,000,000 ($15,000,000). But he continued warningly:

"We live in times which recall the uncertain glory of an April day."

SNOWING IN LONDON

While he uttered these sentiments it was actually snowing in the streets of Westminster.

As already had been made known, another £10,000,000 would be required for the Air Force, he continued. Further sums would be needed for the army and the navy, which momentarily he was not able to give exactly. Taking into account the possibilities and probabilities, Mr. Chamberlain said he had decided to set aside as margin for supplementary estimates for the three defence forces another £20,000,000.

Mr. Chamberlain estimated that the tea duty increase would yield (3,500,000 (about $17,500,000).

"It's robbery," interjected a Socialist. That was about the only interruption all the way through the speech, which lasted one hour and twenty-seven minutes. The House was crowded to the doors.

TAKEN IN STRIDE

"In my speech last year," said the Chancellor of the Exchequer, "I warned the committee we were approaching a period of fresh anxiety in Europe which might have its repercussion upon our finances. I do not think that this committee will quarrel with me when I say that we have every reason to congratulate ourselves upon the fact that we have been able at present to take comfortably in our stride this new and unexpected demand upon our resources."

The Chancellor of the Exchequer declared he expected £248,000,000 (about $1,240,000,000) from income tax, an increase of about £10,000,000. In this connection he announced that steps would be taken to deal with the tax dodger who adopted various methods — all completely within the law—of avoiding the tax or supertax.

REVENUE BUOYANCY

"The buoyancy of revenue," said the Chancellor of the Exchequer towards the close of his speech, "has enabled me to provide not only for a substantial and sustained increase in social services but also for a heavy increase in the cost of defence services, which in the last two years has risen no less than £44,000,000 (about $220,000,000).

"If we had been able to keep our defence estimates at their previous level we should have had today available a large sum for the relief of taxation. To that extent it may be said that the present generation already is shouldering its liabilities at a very serious sacrifice to itself.

FILLING THE GAPS

"We had to fill the gaps which had been left by the deliberate policy of successive governments over a long period of years, we had to prepare ourselves against the risks involved in its initial stages by a policy of collective security to which we had been looking to rid us ultimately of the spectre of war.

"It seems to me neither just nor in accordance with the sound principles of finance upon which the improvements in our finances have been built that we should lightheartedly push off the whole of this burden of preparing for the future upon those coming after us.

WILL RISE SWIFTLY

"Unless it is possible to come to some agreement upon a general scheme of disarmament the cost of defence is going to rise swiftly during the next few years to a peak and after that it will begin to descend. The important point to bear in mind is that it will not descend to the old low level. I think it is clear that we must find additional expenditures for the rising cost of maintenance out of revenue.

"How much in addition we should have to find out of revenue for emergency expenditure I am not prepared now to assess."

"We have shown our readiness to bear a proper share of the exceptional burden by using for that purpose of our expanding revenue and perhaps submitting to some fresh sacrifices. In future years part of this expenditure might properly be met out of a loan."

Concluding his speech, the Chancellor said: "I had hoped it would be possible to reward the taxpayer by giving even greater relief than anything I have been able to afford hitherto, but instead I had to ask new sacrifices. It is to me a bitter disappointment."

Calles in Exile Again

Detective Romero — General Calles

"I am very tired—I have nothing to say," was the comment made by General Calles, former dictator of Mexico, when he arrived at the Los Angeles Airport, above, after he had again been exiled to the United States. Detective Eddie Romero is at the left. Calles was forced to leave Mexico by President Cardenas.

"Tons of Money" Has Excellent Reception At Empire Theatre

Victoria Little Theatre Association Presents Clever Cast in Hilariously-Funny Farce Comedy Sponsored by Rotary Club for Milk Fund

ALL the equivalents of "battle, murder and sudden death" notwithstanding, Aubrey Henry Maitland Allington had a merry ending. At least, that is the way the audience at the Empire Theatre took it last evening when they followed, with a continuous paean of laughter, the said Aubrey's checkered attempts to devise a painless demise for himself when he learned that he had fallen heir to "Tons of Money."

The entertainment, one of the best amateur theatrical entertainments of the past several years here, was produced by the Victoria Little Theatre Association for the Rotary Club milk fund foundation. Three curtain calls and continuing applause at the end of the last hilarious scene furnished an index of the wholehearted way in which the audience enjoyed a two-hour-long show that moved throughout with almost professional smoothness and speed. It will be repeated tonight.

FARCE COMEDY

Farce comedy of the purest kind, clean fun from start to finish, "Tons of Money" is a most refreshing kind of entertainment. With the probability of the happenings or the logic of the plot one forgot to concern oneself, the ludicrous was so absorbing a pastime. James Chesterman, a heavy and pompous type of solicitor, brings news to Aubrey and Louise Allington that they are heirs to a fortune of some $230,000 of one George Maitland, a cousin who is assumed to have departed this life in Mexico. But Aubrey and Louise have a host of creditors, and in order to get the benefit of the fortune themselves instead of having to cash it all in paying bills, they devise a spurious "death" for Aubrey which will give his widow legitimate claim to the money.

This was the beginning of a chain of absurdities, leading, through three acts of hilarious comedy, to the farcical catastrophe which leaves Aubrey and Louise in possession of something a little more than £1 to share with the co-heir of the estate.

THE PRODUCTION

The production and acting alike were splendid. In a most attractive room, charmingly furnished, one is introduced to the several characters in turn. And what an excellent cast!

Betty Hetherington, as the vivacious and pretty Louise Allington, was everything that one could wish for. Her manner had just the right lightness, brightness and quickness to make convincing the role of the young wife bursting with unpremeditated and silly "bright" ideas; while H. J. S. Reynolds was incomparably funny as the fatuous Aubrey. His sustained imbecility, set to a quick repartee of cleverly foolish wit, was a brilliant bit of comedy acting that the audience thoroughly enjoyed. He brought a good fund of "business" to his characterization to keep the interest alive, and his nimbleness of movement and complete change of voice in the three-fold role of spendthrift husband, Mexican cousin with a swagger and a sombrero, and venerable clergyman who momentarily forgets his role and uses the unecclesiastical oath, gave proof of a versatile actor.

OTHER PARTS

Another very outstanding part was that of "Auntie," played by Leila Harris. It would have been quite easy for "Auntie" to forget her deafness and use it only for the moment when it was required for the "lines." But, as played, it was extremely realistic, and brought one of the finest elements of farce into the play. It had so much of the gossip's eager curiosity about it. Arthur Long was very good indeed as the solicitor, invariably solemn, unhumorous and heavy.

A sound actor was welcomed back to the stage in H. J. Davis' presentation of Sprules, the butler, who was also one of the schemers after the fortune. This was by turn pompous and obsequious, but always in keeping with the situation, even when the situation included Simpson, the parlormaid, a Cockney part well played by Natalie Long.

Leo Marston played the part of the deaf old gardener, a characterization requiring more study of gait than of speech, and Peggy Josephs played with the right touch of simpering simplicity and sentimentality the part of Jean, who didn't seem to know her own husband. Arthur Dawe and Charles Gibbard were the two last to appear, the first in the role of the pretender, and the latter in the part of the real lost cousin, George Maitland, convincingly played, with appropriate temper.

SCORES OF CITIZENS MYSTIFIED BY NOISE

there. James Island, where the explosives division of the Canadian Industries is located, reported "all safe and sound." The shock, an official of the company said, had not been felt there.

A Colonist reporter, who was in the vicinity of Bay Street, heard the disturbance a few minutes before 10 o'clock. It appeared to be from a northwesterly direction and resembled the muffled boom of a heavy gun. There was no noticeable earth tremor at that point, although officers at the Naval Barracks in Esquimalt reported buildings were shaken.

BUILDING SHAKEN

Sergeant Duncan McPherson, at the city police station, said the building was shaken twice. A number of residents in various parts of the city reported the shock severe in their localities.

Many theories were advanced. Some believed the disturbance to be heavy bursts of thunder. Others leaned to the single explosion theory, while many maintained it was an earthquake.

WITHOUT POWER TO GRANT LOANS

ing a bond maturity on April 1 Mr Pattullo also objects to the loan council conditions, and as matters now stand he will be unable to get assistance otherwise.

MAY NOT PROCEED

Mr. Patterson would accept the loan council scheme, but the question arises whether or not the Government will proceed with it when two of the borrowing Provinces refuse to come under its conditions.

Unless Mr. Dunning asks Parliament to authorize loans to the Provinces to meet their normal financing needs, there is no power at present by which the Federal Treasury can do anything for either British Columbia or Saskatchewan. The Finance Minister has given no indication that he will ask for such powers.

District Officer Makes Inspection Of Coast Brigade

All Units on Parade at Armories for Official Annual Review—Batteries March Past Saluting Base With Bands—Gun Practice Carried On—Lieut.-Colonel M. A. Kent in Charge

PARADING for their official annual inspection, units of the 5th B.C. Coast Brigade, Royal Canadian Artillery, were put through brigade manoeuvres and gun practice at the Armories here last night before a large crowd of spectators who lined the galleries of the big drill hall.

The inspecting officer was Brigadier D. J. MacDonald, D.S.O., M.C., district officer commanding Military District No. 11, assisted by Major K. C. Burness, M.C., general staff officer; Lieut.-Colonel C. B. Russell, D.S.O., A.A.Q.M.G., Major W. E. R. M. Stone, deputy commandant, Royal School of Artillery, and Captain A. E. Routier, M.C., instructor of gunnery. The brigade was commanded by Lieut.-Colonel M. Aubrey Kent.

BRANCHES INSPECTED

Several hours were required to complete the inspection of the various branches of the brigade's activities, which included range finding, gun practice with the big six-inch quick firing coast defence gun, the twelve-pounders, 4.5 howitzers and the eighteen-pounders. The miniature range, equipped with a miniature torpedo boat that registered direct hits by means of electrical control, was also inspected by the officers. Brigade signalers and the anti-aircraft section were also inspected. The latter corps attracted a good deal of interest from the spectators. Bands, both brass and trumpet, paraded with the unit.

UNITS OF BRIGADE

Units, which comprise the brigade, and their commanders, are as follows: 58th Filed Battery, R.C.A., Major R. E. A. Diespecker; 12th Heavy Battery, R.C.A., Major B. R. Ker; 55th Heavy Battery, coast defence, Captain S. R. Bowden (acting commander); 56th Heavy Battery, R.C.A., Major Vincent McKenna, M.C.; anti-aircraft section, Captain G. Paulin. The brigade adjutant is Captain H. C. Bray, and brigade sergeant-major, F. Dutot. The brass band was under the direction of Bandmaster Alfred Prescott, and the trumpet band was in charge of Lance-Sergeant Wilson.

GENERAL INSPECTION

Promptly at 8:30 o'clock, Brigadier MacDonald and members of his staff took their positions at the saluting base at the south side of the drill hall. The entire brigade was drawn up in review order on the north side, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Kent, and the general salute given. This was followed by the march past in brigade quarter column and in brigade column. In the quarter column movement the brigade kept a perfect line past the saluting base and the quick march was exceptionally well timed. The brigade inspection concluded with the general salute after the advance in review order, march past of the bands. Incidentally it was the first general inspection of the recently formed trumpet band, and the young men put on a good display.

GUNNERY INSPECTION

Battery manoeuvres were dispensed with, and the brigadier and members of his staff confined their inspection to the practical side of gunnery and the individual batteries were thoroughly inspected, the brigadier taking a keen interest in the work of the mobile units, which were drawn up in the centre of the drill hall, and a large number of spectators watched the various operations.

Due to the increasing number of army airplanes, the work of the anti-aircraft section is increasing, and two guns are now located here. The work of this branch of the brigade is extremely exacting, calling for the use of technical equipment for range finding and determining height and speed of enemy machines. This section is considered one of the most important of artillery brigades.

At the conclusion of the general inspection, Brigade Quartermaster-Sergeant G. B. Elliott was presented with a general efficiency medal by the brigadier, in full view of the assembled brigade.

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN

School Board Winds Up Long Discussion on Alleged Dismissal of Painter

A unanimous vote of confidence in Major A. C. Hinton and the work he has carried out since he was appointed supervisor of buildings and grounds was passed by the city school board at a special meeting yesterday afternoon, in which the prolonged discussions on the protests made from the Trades and Labor Council and the Sons of England, in respect to the alleged dismissal of A. Weatherhill, painter, were ended.

The board heard Major Hinton's report, in which he reviewed the history of the case, and referred to Mr. Weatherhill's work since last June. The report explained that Mr. Weatherhill had not been dismissed. He was merely a day laborer, and was laid off when the rainy season started and there no longer was any work to be done. He was not taken on again because the supervisor reported to the buildings and grounds committee that the quantity of his work was not satisfactory. Major Hinton reported that he had spoken to Mr. Weatherhill on several occasions in respect to the amount of work he was doing.

TRIBUTE IS PAID

In passing the vote of confidence the chairman of the board, Trustee W. C. Moresby, K.C., paid tribute to the work that had been carried out at the various schools.

In answer to questions, Major Hinton denied, emphatically, that he had been influenced in any respect by any of the trustees regarding Mr. Weatherhill's work.

The board also decided to notify the Trades and Labor Council that it had not called for applications to fill the post of supervisor of buildings and grounds because it was found that an employee of the board could be used for this work and, with a reorganization of the staff, a big economy made.

WANT QUALIFICATIONS

The board also decided to ask Major Hinton to supply the trustees with a list of his qualifications as a supervisor. There was some objection to this, some members of the board contending that the improvements carried out during the last eighteen months spoke louder than words, and in view of Major Hinton's work there should be no need to ask for a written list of qualifications. However, the motion carried, 4 to 3.

Trustee Walter Staneland informed the board that, at the next regular meeting of the board, he would give notice of motion asking for a change in the by-laws whereby at each inaugural meeting of the board in each year, the chairman would appoint a finance committee of three, and declare the whole board as a public works committee to deal with buildings and grounds work, thereby abolishing the present committee of three on buildings and grounds.

CITY SEEKING B.C. COUNSEL

Treasury Audience Will Be Arranged but Municipal Affairs Office Busy

Victoria City was doggedly pursuing the Provincial Government yesterday in an effort to obtain definite information that might be of assistance to the city in its current budget, now under review.

The finance committee of the City Council sent two notes through the mails yesterday to Government offices. The first requested an audience for the civic budget group with the Minister of Finance on Friday morning. The second was an invitation to Hon. A. W. Gray to discuss his refunding proposals.

IS CALLED AWAY

The Minister of Municipal Affairs was invited to attend a meeting of the city finance committee with bond dealers on Friday afternoon to explain how the city can secure 3½ per cent money when the Province itself is paying 4 per cent on Federal loans.

Mr. Gray said he had been called out of town and will be unavoidably absent on Friday, when he will be on the Mainland on business that is expected to last for several days. He will return on Sunday to the city.

Hon. John Hart intimated he would be glad to meet city officials at any time that can be arranged.

SPEAKERS DEAL WITH SUNSPOTS

Royal Astronomical Society Of Canada Branch Meeting Is Held

Sunspots, auroras and natural forces affecting radio reception were discussed by Capt. William Everall, William Petrie and A. I. Deacon at a meeting of Victoria branch of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada in the Y.W.C.A. last evening, Lieut.-Commander H. R. Tingley presided.

Capt. Everall explained a sunspot consisted of a central dark umbra surrounded by a penumbra, or semi-obscure fringe of filaments. Sunspots, he said, occurred on the sun's surface from five degrees to thirty-five degrees north and south latitude. They had been discovered by Fabricius and Galilee about 1610.

They were estimated to be 500 times brighter than a full moon, and their life was from a few hours to eighteen months. The largest one, observed on February 2, 1905, measured 109,000 by 63,000 miles. He believed nineteen great electrical storms recorded between 1875 and 1903, which caused strong electrical currents in telephones and telegraph instruments, were connected with sunspot manifestations.

EXPLAINS AURORA

Mr. Petrie told how atoms were disrupted in the upper atmosphere and the ions shot off caused an aurora. Because of the arrangement of magnetic lines of force around the earth, the majority of ions came down at the North Pole and the ensuing release of energy formed light. Mr. Petrie gave several accounts from scientists who believed they heard sound from an aurora, and from those who denied sound accompanied the weird display of light.

Mr. Deacon explained generation and propagation of radio waves. He told how they traveled to an upper ionized strata above the earth and were refracted to earth again. Sunspots increased the density of ionization and changed its refractive powers, thus causing fluctuating signals. Fading, he said, was caused by the different frequencies in a modulated wave being acted upon differently by the ionized area.

He related how changes in signal strength in night direction finding work made results inaccurate, believing the phenomena would form a fruitful field for research. He mentioned that an aurora, electrical storm, low pressure area and a snowstorm all affected radio transmission. Mr. Deacon closed by mentioning that the affect of the moon on radio waves was at present being investigated.

GREAT TRAVEL TO COAST PREDICTED

H. Bruce Boreham, C.N.R. Press Representative, Says Prairie People Coming Here

This Summer will witness the greatest migration of Prairie people to the Pacific Coast that has been seen in many years, H. Bruce Boreham, Winnipeg, C.N.R. press representative for the Western region, announced with enthusiasm yesterday on his arrival at the Empress Hotel with J. J. Thornton, Coast representative for the railroad.

"Prairie people have more money to travel," he explained, "and already they are talking of Vancouver and its Golden Jubilee celebrations. After visiting in Vancouver, they will surely continue on to Victoria, which is well known."

Both Mr. Boreham and Mr. Thornton expect travel to Alaska this Summer to exceed last year's high mark.

Mails Are Heavy With Inquiries About Victoria

Daily mail being received by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau continues to show the far-reaching effects of the advertising being carried on by the bureau and also by the Dominion Government Travel Bureau at Ottawa.

An increasing number of letters is being received from the Mid-West and Eastern States, the writers saying they are arranging to come to Victoria in their own cars, by train or bus. Many of these explain they have never been to the Pacific Coast before.

Inquiries from California and this Coast generally continue heavy. A number of the writers ask for information concerning accommodation with a view to staying from three weeks to three months. Among such letters are some also asking for information as to the cost of living here, as they entertain the idea of taking up their residence in Victoria.

B.N.A. ACT AMENDMENTS

It could always have been assumed that hasty action in formulating amendments to the British North America Act would be undesirable. There is a lot of negotiation to be carried on, many difficulties to be ironed out, before it will be possible for the Dominion and Provincial Governments to reach an agreement. Even the fact that nearly all the Administrations in the Dominion are Liberal does not make the problem of reaching an agreement any easier. Out of the recent conversations on the subject, about the only conclusion that emerges is that for the time being, and perhaps indefinitely, there will be no change in the system whereby amendments to the B.N.A. Act must be sanctioned by legislation at Westminster. That procedure is purely formal. All that it is necessary for Westminster to know is that there is Canadian unanimity on any amendments proposed. In that event it is doubtful if anything would be gained by the Dominion having the right to amend its Constitution without going to the British Parliament.

Under the system as it exists there is at least the safeguard and the guarantee of a greater protection for minorities than there would be if the Federal Government were the court of last resort. The conversations that have ensued on the question of amendments have made it abundantly clear that no formula can be devised unless it is one which will not infringe on provincial rights as they now maintain. The Provinces have made it clear that whatever the future arrangements may be they want as effective a voice in defining the Constitution as they enjoy at present. There is, too, in the country a fairly widespread opinion in support of the contention of Mr. Gordon S. Harrington, leader of the Conservative Opposition in Nova Scotia, that that Province is dealing with "pure dynamite" in delving into the question of constitutional amendments.

The fact is that among the majority of the Provinces there is an abstract acquiescence in the belief that amendments are desirable. There is nothing in the nature of concrete unanimity as to what those amendments should be. The fear exists that any surrender of provincial rights will create a precedent, and that one precedent will create another. The whole basis of the Federal Government's desire for amendments to the B.N.A. Act is to centralize at Ottawa certain powers which are now provincial. As long as the threat of this exists it will be difficult, if not impossible, to reach unanimity on the subject.

A NEW "MODERNISM"

Everyone has heard of "modernism" as denoting a tendency, in matters of religious belief, to keep in line with the modern thought rather than with tradition. It was, and is, an attitude of protest against mere authority, tradition, and general opinion; an attempt to bring our religious ideas into harmony with the results of Biblical criticism and the facts of modern science. Dr. W. B. Selbie, writing in The London Spectator, has undertaken to give a new connotation to the term. He brings forward what he calls the "New" Modernism, a title which is intended to distinguish it from the earlier Modernism and also to suggest that the spirit of Modernism is indestructible and will therefore survive all the attacks of fundamentalism, obscurantism and authoritarianism.

What is the mission of this "new Modernism?" Dr. Selbie's answer is that it must learn and accurately express the truths of religion; but, more important than accurate expression of religious truth, it aims at "realism in religion," and insists that the conduct of Christians in a Christian community should conform to Christian professions.

All this sounds reasonable enough so far. It is odd, however, and a little disquieting that Dr. Selbie should go on to declare that to this end there must be a "synthesis" of modern Christianity and modern Communism, no less! The reader is apt to ask in astonishment what possible chance there is to effect a "synthesis" between these two systems, where one is religious, the other anti-Christ. Dr Selbie is ready with his explanation, such as it is. He explains that he would not attempt to combine Communism in its present form with Christianity. It would be necessary in the first place to make some changes in Communistic theory. The New Modernists find fault with that theory on several counts. They have no sympathy with the materialistic philosophy upon which Marxism is founded. They believe that man has aspirations and ideals which religion alone can fulfill. They think that the love motive of Christianity is more potent than the hunger motive of Communism. They reject the doctrine of economic determinism. They are unalterably opposed to the Communistic suppression of individualism. Here are five highly-important features of Communistic theory which Dr. Selbie's New Modernists cannot accept. Apparently, Dr. Selbie thinks that the Communists can be persuaded to drop these doctrines from their formularies if only the Christians will help them to destroy capitalism and bring about social reconstruction and the planned economy!

Dr. Selbie does not propose to unite Christianity with Communism as it is. He proposes to add an economic and monetary theory to the Christian system. From Communism he proposes to remove certain features which constitute the very basis of that system. It is the height of logical absurdity to assume that he can do either of these things.

Of course, this New Modernism will meet with warm approval from many radical agitators. No doubt some ministers of religion are quite ready to aid and abet those revolutionaries who seek to undermine the conservative and preservative institutions of civilization. No doubt the Communists will be pleased with the publicity accorded them by those learned divines who indulge in speculative moonshine about a "synthesis" (blessed word) of two irreconcilable systems of thought.

AN INADEQUATE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The Victoria Public Library is an overcrowded institution, and a point has been reached where extra accommodation should be provided. Such a public facility should be commodious, well aired, with ample space for the public, and, moreover, of such proportions as to give an impression of restfulness. The building on Yates Street is now inadequate to serve the needs of Victorians as they should be served; space is restricted and too cluttered up with book shelves; there is a lack of study rooms; the congestion is so great that it is a question if the building is sanitary. The latter is a condition that should be reported on by the Medical Health Officer of the City.

In order to meet the financial stringency of some years past the Victoria Library Commissioners have cut down expenditures. As a consequence the service to the public, while carried on with enthusiasm and excessively hard work, is not what it should be, for the staff is hampered by the conditions under which its personnel has to operate. That staff is attempting to do what few, if any, other library staffs on the continent are expected to accomplish under anything like similar conditions. Whereas, the American Library Association maintains that adequate library service cannot be given at less than $1 per capita, the Victoria cost is but 67 cents per capita. This cost is being maintained at a time when the public is making ever-increasing demands for specialized service, a condition which, if it is to be met, demands a larger and better trained staff and defined departments.

To meet the needs which obviously prevail, the City could well set aside a sum from the $100,000 provided by the Provincial Government for municipal works to assist in unemployment relief. Probably $10,000, or perhaps less, would provide the added accommodation which is so sorely needed by the Public Library. This is a matter which should engage the attention of the City Council. The popularity of the Public Library is such that the small expenditure needed to make it more efficient would not be grudged in any quarter.

HEALTH INSURANCE

The unequivocal statement is made by Dr. John W. S. McCullough, of Toronto, that "no Province of Canada, much less British Columbia, can afford a plan of health insurance, now or at any time." Dr. McCullough is in favor of health insurance, but only if it is properly conceived and managed. That it cannot be by individual Provinces, for supposing all nine put schemes into effect then there would be a separate bureaucracy for management in each at an aggregate cost of tremendous proportions. There would be additions to the machinery of government instead of the desirable reductions, and a consequent piling up of taxes on an already overtaxed public. Dr. McCullough quotes the experience of other countries in the operation of compulsory health insurance. It has meant a great increase in sickness and medication as indicated by the comparative number of days of sickness and cost of drugs. Health insurance in England and Wales in the course of twenty years has cost £600,000,000.

Dr. McCullough claims that the reason for the great cost is that compulsory health insurance is devised only for cure. He says that no such scheme will prove economically successful unless it is closely bound up with disease prevention. "If every doctor in the land," he says, "were made a health officer and charged with prevention of disease as he is with cure there might be some prospect of making such a scheme successful." What Dr. McCullough advocates, as well, is one scheme in Canada and not isolated provincial bureaucracies. Any scheme, he thinks, must also be associated with the strongest possible public health service so that sickness may be reduced, not increased. Unless health insurance is so devised his belief is that it will "be a farce and an intolerable burden."

More Sleep for Pop

A Keating farmer tells us the best way to silence roosters crowing is to build their roosts so they cannot get their heads up high. It appears they need plenty of head room to whack off a first-class crow . . . We met a mournful policeman over the week-end. His wife came to the city to purchase two tickets to the firemen's ball and placed the money inside one of her gloves. She took the gloves off and the bill apparently fluttered unheeded to the sidewalk . . . We also ran into a disgruntled newshawk who was appointed bartender at a lively party. Mobbed by the merry-makers, he became disgusted when they accused him of being too slow in dispensing the beverages. He served several rounds of ginger ale and water and nobody noticed the difference . . . The collar ad printer, who is enjoying a few brief evenings of liberty before embarking on the troubled seas of matrimony, drove us up to the top of Mount Tolmie the other evening. Esquimalt Fish Story

A good fish story was recalled the other day by Chief Val Pecknold of the Esquimalt police. It seems two men were fishing about a quarter of a mile off shore, with their lines close to the bottom. They hooked a large skate, and it took all their strength to get it into the boat. There it lay, plunging, flapping and doing its best to get back into the water. One of the men got disgusted. He pulled out an old .44 and let fly at the fish. He got the fish all right, but plugged a big hole in the bottom of the boat. The two tried bailing but the boat filled up and they had to swim ashore. Nobody thought of bringing home the fish. —W.J.H.

Whose Saving?

There are three common claims about refunding of public debt—that it is a "saving"; that it "improves credit"; that the "wealthy pay" the fiddler. But extending a debt by twenty years may double it. To retract even part of one's written word is to impair confidence. The majority of bond holdings are the savings of relatively humble people, through life insurance and other trusts. Lock to the public ledgers twenty years from now, and you will find proof that the "savings" have not been saved and that refunding can be the most costly extravagance in public business.—S.G.

Too Much Taxation

No matter in what manner the City Council meets the extra burdens it has to face this year in balancing the budget, any increase in taxation on improvements should be dismissed without even cursory consideration. The history of the improvement tax is that wherever the percentage has been increased, it never has been decreased when better times have arrived. On the other hand, the mill rate fluctuates, so that when the burdens are less heavy the harassed taxpayer is compensated for the hardships he faced during strenuous times by a lower rate. Just how much more taxation homes, offices and stores investments can stand will be determined if the improvement tax is raised to 75 per cent. We venture to say that the city soon will be in the office and home-renting business if they burden improvements much more.—P.C.R.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From The Daily British Colonist of April 22, 1886

Baseball—A baseball match is being arranged between a nine from the Albion Iron Works and a picked nine from the city to be played at Beacon Hill on Friday afternoon. Play will commence at 2 o'clock.

New Steamboat—The Wellington Packing Co. is having constructed at the yard of Turpel & Smith, Victoria harbor, a handsome propeller for the steamboat which will be launched in about two weeks time. She will be used at the cannery by the company and will be one of the speediest and most serviceable vessels of her class afloat.

Fire Drill—Precisely at 13 noon each day the great gong in the Deluge engine house is sounded. Men and horses are instantly on the alert. The latter run to the engine and take their places on either side of the pole. The firemen fasten the traces to the whiffletrees. The driver springs into his seat and, seizing the reins, prepares to drive into the street just as he would if the alarm were a real call for duty. Yesterday Chief Phillips timed the drill, and in twenty-seven seconds from the first stroke all things were in readiness for action. The horses exhibit much obedience considering the short time they have been trained.

ATTACKS OATH GIVEN INDIANS

Stuart Henderson Will Argue Alleged New Irregularity In Murder Trial

Before the Court of Appeal rose last evening, Stuart Henderson announced that on resuming argument today on behalf of the three George brothers, condemned to death for the murder of Constable F. H. Gibbourne, near Merritt, on May 23, 1934, he would take exception to the administration of the oath to Indian witnesses at the trial. He said that he would ask leave to move to incorporte a motion in the appeal proceedings.

In the proceedings yesterday, Mr. Henderson laid special emphasis upon an attack upon some of the Indian witnesses, especially selecting Henry Brown, whose evidence, he contended, was not to be relied upon in any way.

FABRICATION CHARGED

Mr. Henderson took the position that whereas the prosecution had made a most diligent search for blood marks about stumps, where the murder was alleged to have taken place, it was inconceivable that the rocks that were produced as having been used in the murder of Carr should not have been found in that location until June 5, although the search extended from May 25.

"You say there was fabrication of evidence?" asked Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald.

"Certainly; I have no hesitation in saying that," returned Mr. Henderson.

Counsel for the prisoners then produced a statement signed by the Indian witness, Henry Brown, nineteen years of age, who was one of the main witnesses for the Crown as to the events connected with the crime. This statement, it was stated, was made before Sergeant McBrayne just previous to the coroner's inquest.

CLASH IN EVIDENCE

The statement, according to Mr. Henderson, showed Witness Brown and Tommy Andrews, his companion, had followed a different course to what was set out in the evidence Brown gave at the trial.

This statement was not available to the defence at the time of the Vernon trail, the first one, Mr. Henderson said, but was in possession of the Crown at the time.

Hon. G. M. Sloan, K.C., Crown counsel, objected that it was not required that the Crown should reveal everything in the matter of information that was available.

Mr. Henderson took the position that when the witness was offering evidence that was entirely different to a statement made previously, there was no right to conceal that statement.

Mr. Justice Martin plied a series of questions as to the statement and the revealing of it to the defence, after which Mr. Henderson agreed, on request of Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald, to have ready for the next morning a tabulated record showing the differences between this statement and the evidence given at the Vancouver trial.

SHARP WORDS PASS

Earlier in the day Mr. Henderson objected to being called upon repeatedly to admit that his clients had killed the policemen.

"There is no need of being impertinent," sugested Mr. Justice McQuarrie to Mr. Henderson.

The matter was quickly passed over, with Mr. Henderson stating he had no intention of being impertinent in the matter, but stressed the fact he objected to admitting his Indian clients took the lives of the constables, when he claimed it was done when they believed it to be an act of self-defence.

CLAIMS DEFENCE

It was a case of self-defence, said Mr. Henderson. Men, who were shot at, as were these Indians, were forced to defend themselves. Constable Gisbourne, he said, had an automatic, and when he fired it the Indians had no recourse but to offer defence.

EVOLUTIONARY PITFALLS

Sir,—The article which unhappily was allowed to appear in your Sunday issue entitled "Evolution Evidence Held Continuously Increasing" may have given aid and comfort to those who wish to believe in evolution, but there is not a tittle of "evidence" apparent on any careful reading of it. Actually the argument amounts to this. If one wishes to believe in evolution, one must believe in enormous lapses of time during which the differences now existing between various forms of life came about. But such prodigality of time which the anthropologist asks for brings its own embarrassments and actually defeats its objects. If a million generations separate modern man from his "hypothetical ape-like ancestors" at the rate of only fifteen years to a generation—allowing for a briefer span of life in the more primitive stages—this requires fifteen million years, at the beginning of which time there were still "ape-like" creatures; that is to say, animals possessing all the marvelously co-ordinated powers of motion, sight, hearing and so forth. Therefore, what lapse of time must be "estimated" for the evolution of such a wonderful piece of mechanism from the first rudimentary appearance of life? For the anthropologist only touches the fringe of the problem, and to say that the still hypothetical evolution of man from ape-like creatures "proves" evolution in general is to dismiss in a most unscientific manner the still greater difficulties beyond.

But even restricting the argument to the relatively narrow range of anthropology, the difficulties of the evolutionist are great. Sir Ambrose Fleming, F.R.S., in a paper read before the Victoria Institute, London, copies of which I can supply to those interested, points out one which seems insuperable. Accepting the immense lapse of time demanded by the anthropologist, he shows that at the slowest possible rate of increase known since historical times the world population would so vastly have exceeded by now its present number that there would not have been room for them on the earth. Yet increase is necessary to the evolutionary argument, otherwise there would be neither the struggle for existence postulated by Darwin nor the perpetuation of useful modifications.

The further argument from skull capacity likewise is not "evidence," since the essential difference between brute and man is not physical but psychical. For there is an unbridged gulf between the highest brute intelligence and the reflective, self-conscious and God-conscious thought of man. Evolution does not explain the soul of man. The Bible statement alone is satisfactory. God created man in His own image. But since God is a spirit, that image is in the realm of the spirit, and owing to this spirit-likeness there could be interchange of thought between God and man. It is this image which was defaced by man's sin, that is, self-will, and it is restored only by yielding the self to Christ in faith and obedience. It is mournful that the "reverend" professor who was the source of the article referred to is only contributing to the unbelief which even now is drawing God's judgments upon men.

BRAHMS' "REQUIEM"

Sir,—In these days of pessimistic utterances, economic and religious controversies, multiplication of creeds and cults, it is refreshing and stimulating to see and hear nearly 200 men and women of all ages and varied conditions of life giving themselves to the study and performance of the works of great masters of music for a period of seven months.

Last evening the final rehearsal of Brahms' "Requiem" was presented by the Choral Union and full orchestra with organ in the cathedral, as an offering to the school children and students of Victoria. Both words and music of this great work of Brahms, I think, represent the highest in human expression of worship and faith, coupled with thought and emotion.

The note of victory, triumphantly emerging from the travail of pain, suffering and bereavement, is inspiring and uplifting. The words have come down through the ages as an inheritance to us, in the Scriptures, and Brahms selected them in memory of his beloved mother, setting them to most glorious music.

Our late King's favorite hymn, "Abide With Me," and "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," sung by the congregation with orchestra of full brass, wood-wind and strings in such a wonderful setting as our beautiful cathedral is inspiring and uplifting.

One can only hope and trust that Victoria will rise to the opportunity of attending such a wonderful memorial service on Wednesday at 8 p.m., and for those who cannot afford to purchase a programme for admission, they may obtain same from the dean by personal application.

Thanking you for this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of a presentation of just a part of our wonderful heritage of music and literature now so be offered.

VIEWING GARDENS

Sir,—I read a notice in Sunday's Colonist that more gardens were open for the inspection and pleasure of the public this week. I took a party of friends out to Hatley Park on Saturday to find there was an entrance fee of twenty-five cents per person. Would it not be as well to have the fee for admittance published beforehand?

BEACON HILL IS IN FULL BLOOM

Fine Displays of Spring Flowers Now to Be Seen—Native Plants Protected

Due to the astonishingly rapid growth of Spring plants during the past week, Beacon Hill Park is now in glorious array, and perhaps is more beautiful than it has been for some years.

It was reported at the City Hall yesterday that those interested in park development and in floral beauty would do well to see the fine displays of daffodils, which are now at their best.

The native wild flowers also are showing to advantage, and it is pleasing to note that few people are now picking these flowers. A few cases were reported, but even in these instances, the number of flowers that had been picked were few. The hope was expressed that the public would continue to protect the wild flowers so that at least in the public parks they may be preserved.

GEOLOGICAL SOCIETY DISCOVERS FOSSILS

A party of twenty-two members and friends of the Victoria Geological Society thoroughly enjoyed the society's first field trip this season on Sunday.

Under the leadership of A. Marrion, who carefully explained the history and sequence of the various glacial and inter-glacial periods which have left their records in and around Victoria, the party investigated the marine clays, sands and gravels exposed in the cliffs at Gordon Head.

Diligent members of the group found a number of fossil shells in the marine clay, and insect remains, fir cones and twigs in the pressed remains of a pre-glacial swamp. Numerous erratic boulders which had plainly been carried here by ice from Up-Island and from the Mainland drew much attention. The leader also called attention to the effect of the ice flow on the surrounding landscape. At the close of the trip, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Marrion.

PLANS FOR SEASON TO BE DISCUSSED

With Mayor David Leeming presiding, the executive committee of the Tourist Trade Development Association will meet at noon on Friday to review the general secretary's programme for the season.

Work on renovating and improving the Inner Harbor Show Boat will commence after the meeting. The Tourist Trade Development Association is negotiating with Basil Horsfall, of Victoria Civic Opera, to organize four special Show Boat entertainments with excerpts from grand and light opera, using full costumes and scenery.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock, add 18.6 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock, add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

V-8
Gives You the Smoothness and Power of an "8" With Economy

Let no well-intentioned "friend" tell you that the V-8 uses any more gasoline and oil than a "6," because there are now more than two million V-8 owners who will flatly contradict it. Small cylinders grouped in the V-8 principle constitutes the most efficient power plant yet devised for a motor car. It is something that has been known for years . . . only it has been expensive to build, and only cars selling at $3,000 to $5,000 could offer such luxury. Now the luxury of V-8 performance is yours at a price anyone can afford to pay. The proof is that you can buy one for as little as $30 a month.

British Programme Changes Methods of Training R.A.F. Men

New Scheme Provides for Obtaining Full Instructions in Much Shorter Period Than Under Old Regulations

Important changes in the system of Royal Air Force training will insure that during the period covered by the "expansion" programme, progress in pilotage, navigation, air gunnery, bombing and flying discipline will march at a rate equal to the rapid progress in equipment.

Within the next three years the service will receive, at a continually accelerating rate, new types of aircraft capable of performances far beyond the scope of the airplanes which now form the bulk of its equipment. There will be a general change-over from the biplane to the monoplane, except in a few classes. New methods of pilotage are made inevitable by the demands of the new and vastly more complicated machinery which is to be placed at the disposal of the military aviator.

UNDER OLD SCHEME

Under the old scheme the student pilot went straight to a service flying training school, where he spent the first eleven months of his military career in elementary flying instruction and at lectures. At the end of that time the student had done no night flying and no formation flying. He had no practical experience of air gunnery or bombing.

The new scheme provides for the student to get his elementary flying instruction at a civilian school. In his first term at a service flying training school he is given more flying instruction and begins night flying. He is expected to absorb at this period much more knowledge of air navigation than under the old scheme. The second period at a service flying training school continues the night flying, and takes the student through the difficult technique of formation flying at least as far as flying in flight formation of three, four or five aircraft. A month is spent at an armament camp for firing practice. Thus the student reaches a much higher standard of efficiency than his predecessors at a stage so much earlier in his career that he no langer requires individual flying instruction when he is posted to a squadron.

TIME IS SAVED

Squadron training under the new scheme begins with a brief introductory period of flying practice to accustom the pilot to the type of aircraft flown by the unit. That period over, the pilot goes immediately on to the intricacies of squadron flying. Not only is much time saved in the training of the military flyer, but at every stage there is a substantial gain in the efficiency and thoroughness of the instruction.

The new scheme cannot take full effect this year. Its influence will be apparent in 1937 and increase until the expansion programme is completed in March, 1939.

WAITING WORD FROM OTTAWA

Lad Who Didn't Remember Name of Relatives Returned to Seattle

SEATTLE, April 21 (CP).—Immigration officials at Victoria, B.C., were unable to find "Aunt Jennie" or "Uncle Will."

Fourteen-year-old Melvin Coe, of Aberdeen, was back here today as a result, awaiting the arrival of his mother, Mrs. Bernice Coe. The Travelers' Aid Society was looking after him.

The boy's travels began when his aunt, Mrs. Ray Burris, of Hoquiam, took him to Port Angeles. He boarded a boat for Victoria to visit another aunt.

On his arrival, he could only remember he was to visit "Aunt Jennie" and "Uncle Will."

Unable to determine who "Aunt Jennie" and "Un ' Will" were, immigration officials had no other recourse but to return young Melvin Coe to Port Angeles on his arrival here.

It was learned yesterday that "Aunt Jennie" and "Uncle Will" are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hill, of Duncan, who are now taking up with Ottawa the matter of Melvin's visit Up-Island.

CHANGES IN SCHEDULES

Canadian Pacific Announces Important Changes in Train Times

VANCOUVER, April 21.—A change important to the Pacific Coast is included in the new timetable for Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental services, coming into effect on Sunday, April 26.

On and after that date, Train No. 2, for Winnipeg, Ottawa and Montreal, will leave Vancouver daily at 9:30 a.m., instead of 9:30 p.m. This provides a morning and evening eastbound departure, since Train No. 4,—the Dominion, will continue to leave for Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal at 7:15 p.m.

Morning instead of evening departure of No. 2 will be of value to residents of the Fraser Valley and of great service to shipping firms in Vancouver doing business with the valley trade.

ARRIVAL TIMES

No changes will take place regarding arrival times of the Canadian Pacific Railway's trans-continental trains in Vancouver. No. 3, the Dominion, will continue to arrive at 9 a.m. daily and No. 1 at 10:30 p.m.

Trains 3 and 4, the Dominion, will feature a full line of air-conditioned equipment, including sleepers, diners and lounge observation cars, during the Summer season. The popular Mountaineer, completely air conditioned, and a solid sleeping car train with solarium lounge-observation, will be in service between Chicago and Vancouver from June 28 to September 8, providing daylight travel through the Canadian Rockies, and, like Trains 3 and 4, arrives and departs at convenient hours at Banff and Lake Louise.

The Mountaineer will arrive in Vancouver daily at 8 a.m. and leave Vancouver daily at 8 p.m.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

Canadian Pacific officials feel that heavy traffic to the Pacific Coast through the Rockies this Summer, due to the Vancouver Jubilee and other attractions, will be efficiently taken care of by their frequent daily services to the Middle West and East.

Continuing to leave Vancouver daily at 7:15 p.m., the Dominion, after April 26, will reach Toronto at 6:30 a.m. on the fourth morning, an hour earlier than the present schedule. This train, by its connection at Sudbury with No. 8, also affords speedier connections with Atlantic seaboard and sailings by the Canadian Pacific fleet from Montreal and Quebec.

Ninety Gangs of Longshoremen Will Be Asked For This Morning

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21 (AP).—Waterfront employers and union longshoremen signed an agreement today to end a week-long labor dispute which virtually paralyzed activity on usually teeming docks.

A. Boyd, secretary of the Waterfront Employers' Association, said at least ninety gangs of longshoremen—several hundred men—would be asked for through the regular hiring hall tomorrow morning.

The agreement, which re-establishes the 1934 arbitration award as a basis of relationship between both parties, was signed after employer and longshoremen representatives had met with Judge M. C. Sloss, Federal arbitrator in maritime disputes.

The present dispute, one of many here since the coastwise strike two years ago, started when longshoremen refused to unload the Grace liner Santa Rosa, which had been listed as "unfair" by the Maritime Federation of the Pacific.

Financial Secretary to British Treasury Opposes Plan Affecting Canadian Borrowing

LONDON, April 21 (C.).—I don't think it advisable to adopt the suggestion," said W. S. Morrison, financial secretary to the Treasury, in reply to a proposal regarding Canadian provincial and municipal loans by Sir Nicholas Grattan-Doyle, in the House of Commons today.

Sir Nicholas suggested the committee on overseas issues should consider the position of United Kingdom holders of Canadian provincial and municipal loans floated in London, with a view to restricting future issues of such loans in London to those guaranteed both in principal and interest by the Dominion Government.

Ferry operators on the North Saskatchewan River were ordered by the Alberta Department of Public Works to pull in their ferries, as an ice jam, now fourteen feet high, was being built higher at Rocky Rapids, seventy-five or eighty miles west of here. A solid wall of water and ice is behind the jam.

WARNINGS BROADCAST

PREVENT DANGERS OF CONSTIPATION*

"Bulk" in ALL-BRAN Is Gentle in Action

Common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. You fail to get your internal exercise. Millions of people have found that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies soft "bulk" with satisfactory results.

Tests in nutrition laboratories demonstrate that the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN can be used with the utmost confidence. Naturally, those few individuals with diseased or highly sensitive intestines should not take "bulk" in any form—either in leafy vegetables or in bran.

Unlike cathartics, ALL-BRAN is natural in its action—nor does this food lose its effectiveness with continued use. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and cleanses the intestines, promoting normal and healthful elimination.

Two tablespoonfuls of this delicious cereal, served with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Enjoy it also in cooked dishes.

Help your family keep well. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Extricated, the two were soon revived and flew away.

FINED FOR DRIVING TO COMMON DANGER

NANAIMO, April 21.—Norman Leslie Corfield, charged with driving to the common danger, was today fined $35 and costs by Magistrate Beevor-Potts in police court. Evidence showed that, while driving along Wallace Street on the morning of March 1, he had failed to observe a stop sign and had run into and injured Mrs. E. Case. The case had been adjourned from time to time, and today court adjourned to the hospital, where the evidence of Mrs. Case was heard.

CAREER IS CUT SHORT

Promising Young Officer of Merchant Marine Passes In Newcastle

Frederick Robertson MacQueen, youngest son of Rev. and Mrs. E. MacQueen, of 2643 Quadra Street, passed away on Monday at Newcastle-on-Tyne. He was twenty-one years of age and had given great promise of going far in his chosen career as an officer of the Merchant Marine.

Young MacQueen was born at Wroxton, Saskatchewan, in 1915, and came here with his parents two years later. As he grew up he attended Quadra Street School and Victoria High School, and at an early age joined the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps, in which he acquired a good rudimentary knowledge of seamanship and incidentally became a general favorite with the instructors and his shipmates.

His first sea experience was aboard the Hydrographic Survey Ss. Lillooet, where he served during two seasons, when he became apprenticed, through the efforts of the local branch of the Navy League, to the Joseph Constantine Steamship Line Limited, and joined the Ss. Mapiewood in 1932. He was taking his examination for second mate at Newcastle-on-Tyne when stricken with pneumonia, passing away after a short illness.

EXPRESS SYMPATHY

Officers, instructors and all ratings of the Rainbow Sea Cadets were shocked when they learned the sad news here on Monday night, and passed a resolution of sympathy with his family. He was remembered in the corps as a model for the other cadets, and within a year after his appointment to the Mapiewood, the marine superintendent of the Constantine Line addressed a letter to the secretary of the Navy League here stating that the "work of F. MacQueen speaks for itself. An exceptionally good boy, who shows keen interest in everything and anxious to learn."

In addition to his parents, young MacQueen leaves two sisters and a brother in Victoria to mourn his passing. The funeral will take place tomorrow at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

A. N. MITCHELL VISITING CITY

General Manager of Canada Life Assurance Co. Reports Few Loans Made

As far as the Canada Life Assurance Company was concerned, applications for loans under the Dominion Housing Act scheme have been few, and those in Eastern Canada, A. N. Mitchell, Toronto, vice-president and general manager of the company, stated here yesterday, during an interview at the Empress Hotel.

He arrived in Victoria with his daughter, Miss M. F. Mitchell, and R. J. Trenought, Toronto, Western agency supervisor, after attending insurance company conventions in California.

No loans have yet been made on the Prairies, and there was little likelihood of them being made owing to the possibility of any one of the provinces invoking legislation that might prevent the company from regaining its money, Mr. Mitchell intimated.

LOAN COUNCIL

Asked for his views on the financial conditions, particularly of Western Canada, the executive likened the over-expenditure of the provinces to the squanderings of a "drunken sailor," who had to pay after his fling was over. Just as the individual had to take his medicine, the Provincial Governments had to do the same. The "medicine," he explained, was the pledging by the provinces to the Federal Government that they would carry on their financial operations under the guidance of the Dominion Loan Council. Mr. Mitchell thought such a scheme was "a sane way out of the present difficulties." The Federal Government would then advance them money.

"No trouble would be encountered in refunding in any province, if that province accepts the proposed Dominion method," he asserted.

HON. C. A. DUNNING

At this point Mr. Mitchell paid high tribute to Hon. C. A. Dunning. He said he considered him a strong Finance Minister and felt certain Mr. Dunning would pull Canada through its financial difficulties. The visitor quickly explained he was not a politician and had not made his remark on account of party affiliations.

Speaking in regard to his company's business, Mr. Mitchell reported "nice gains." He will confer today with local officials and other company executives from the Prairies who are visiting here.

Wisconsin State Well on Its Way To Better Times

Wisconsin State is climbing out of the depression at a faster rate than the States on the Pacific Coast, in the opinion of J. I. Hahn, Dodgeville, Wis., wholesale tobacconist, who is registered at the Empress Hotel with Mrs. Hahn.

In the farming area of his State, barns everywhere were receiving coats of paint and new fences were rising on every side.

Speaking of his own business, he reported sales were back to the 1932 level, which was comparatively good for the tobacco industry.

Explaining he was on a pleasure trip, purely, L. Wayland-Smith, Oneida, N.Y., vice-president of the Oneida Company, manufacturers of silverplate, at the Empress Hotel last night declined to discuss business. Provincial Chapter Welcomed to City At Opening Session

Hon. K. C. MacDonald and Mayor David Leeming Extend Greetings to Delegates—Professor E. S. Farr Gives Splendid Address

THE twenty-third annual meeting of Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E., opened last evening in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel, a large gathering of delegates being greeted by the Provincial officers and the regent and members of Victoria Municipal Chapter, who will act as hostesses during the meeting.

After the executive and distinguished guests had been seated on the platform, the Provincial president, Mrs. Frank Stead, of Vancouver, in the chair, the standard-bearers, headed by the Provincial standard-bearer, took their places below the platform, standing at attention while the prayer of the order was repeated by the members in unison and silent prayers offered for His Late Majesty King George V. for the men entombed in the mine in Nova Scotia, and for the members of the order in British Columbia who had passed away during the year.

RESOLUTIONS OF LOYALTY

The president read a resolution of loyalty to Their Excellencies Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir. Greetings were read from the National president, from Miss Bollert, of the University of British Columbia, and from Mrs. A. F. Griffiths, second vice-president of Provincial Chapter.

On behalf of Victoria Municipal Chapter, Mrs. William Ellis, the regent, welcomed the delegates and expressed her wish for a successful meeting. Mrs. W. H. Belson, of Deep Cove, read the reply written on behalf of the delegates by Mrs. R. H. W. Cruse, of Kamloops, who was unable to attend the meeting.

TENDERS GREETINGS

Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, brought greetings on behalf of the Premier of British Columbia. He told the chapter that the Government was vitally interested in the work of such organizations as theirs, and congratulated them upon the manner in which they were helping to solve the problems which confront the country.

His Worship Mayor Leeming heartily welcomed the delegates and expressed the hope that the deliberations would be of widespread benefit. He urged the members to continue to work for peace and to avoid the pitfalls of a "wrong sense of nationalism."

Following the Mayor's greeting, Mrs. S. W. Muncey, Provincial Chapter secretary, announced that the $5 cash prize for the best scrapbook of the year had been awarded to the Duncan Lawson Chapter of West Vancouver, and the $2 prize for the best collection of press clippings to the James H. Schofield Chapter, of Trail.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

In a very charmingly worded address, the president reviewed the memorable events of the past year, referring specially to the Silver Jubilee celebrations, and, in contrast, the deep grief felt by the Empire and the whole world in the passing of His Late Majesty King George. Great Britain had lost many of her most famous sons. Events of momentous importance had taken place, yet the steadying power of the nation's statesmen had guided the Empire in calm waters.

The Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire had enjoyed thirty-six years' service to Canada, and a continuance of that service was never more badly needed than at the present time, she said. The educational work of the order had been broadened; in fact, the war memorial fund was not large enough to afford help for many deserving students, and the president suggested that individual chapters might take up this worthy work.

She reminded the members that a generous proportion of the money raised by the order was given each year to other organizations, and expressed the opinion that the order itself should be the first consideration. Forty new chapters had been organized in the Dominion in the past year. The Navy League and Girl Guide work had been of value, and the treasurer had balanced the budget. One valuable contribution had been the establishment of a quartz-light room in the Vancouver Preventorium by the Vancouver Municipal Chapter at a cost of $2,500 over $20,000 being already in[illegible] by the I.O.D.E. in this in[illegible]

At the conclusion of her address, Mrs. Stead was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers on behalf of the members by Miss Georgina Dowdall.

SPEAKER OF EVENING

The guest speaker of the evening was Professor E. S. Farr, B.A., LL.B., and his subject, "Canada's Place in the Empire." He referred at the beginning of his very brilliant address to the splendid help which the order had given to education, and of his appreciation on behalf of one helping to guide young students in the paths of learning. The heritage which Canada enjoys today, he said, dates back to the days of the habitants and back to Saxon England.

The address, almost limitless in scope, left the audience with a clear picture of the changes which have come about since 1776. There had been, in reality, three British Empires, he said, and the present Empire dated from 1914. Britain had long been the home of liberty and free institutions and had had the courage to follow after personal and parliamentary freedom.

The Empire was bound by strong ties, liberty, co-operation, and a spirit of understanding, and was held together by common feeling and intense devotion to great ideals. Such bonds would prevent any "breaking up of the Empire," he said. He dealt particularly with Canada's place in the Empire, and in whatever direction the Empire was progressing it was certain that Canada would have a foremost part to play in that development.

The business session commences at 9 o'clock this morning at the Empress Hotel, continuing after luncheon, which will be served at 12:45 p.m.

Weddings

BUTLER—MUTRIE

The wedding took place in Vancouver on Sunday last, in the Princess Patricia suite at the Georgia Hotel, between Alice Elizabeth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Mutrie, of Chilliwack, and Mr. Ronnie M. Butler, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Butler, of 1871 Monteith Street, Victoria.

Rev. W. A. Guy performed the ceremony in a lovely setting of daffodils and greenery, in the presence of relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride and groom. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a most becoming gown of Spanish tile in a soft crepe material trimmed with brown, and a small brown hat, and a spray of pale yellow rosebuds on one shoulder.

Refreshments were served after the service, when Mrs. J. F. Brown, of Sedro Wooley, Wash., and Mrs. James Butler, of Burlington, Wash., aunts of the bridegroom, presided at the table, which was centred with the wedding cake, and decorated with tall pink tapers and carnations. After a honeymoon in Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Butler will return to Victoria, and make their home at 1018 Burdett Avenue.

LOUSAND—HAIKALA

Mrs. Alma Haikala, 907 Collinson Street, announces the marriage of her eldest daughter, Helmi, to Mr. Leo Ruben Lousand, of Port Alberni, which took place on Friday, April 17. Mr. and Mrs. Lousand motored on Monday to Port Alberni, where they will make their home.

Y.W.C.A. Notes

The Y.W.C.A. is a literal beehive of industry in preparation for the April Fair, which will take place on Friday and Saturday in the Y.W.C.A. Building. Each club is responsible for some part of the programme.

The Pirate Club is busy preparing a novel idea for the fish pond, while the Versatiles are looking after "The World's Most Unique Art Gallery." The Senior Business Girls and the Y-Owenca will display candies of every kind and description.

The Y-Cwenc Club is also responsible for a song group. They will repeat their camp-fire singing group which they gave at the Music Festival, and were commended for the quality of the music. Great care is being taken in arranging the scene to represent the out-of-doors.

The Junior Business Girls, under the able direction of Mrs. F. J. Rumball, are preparing an excellent entertainment in the form of a play both clever and amusing. "Aunt Abigail Speaks" is its title. The characters are well portrayed by the girls. Aunt Abigail, a true believer that woman's place is in the home, is taken by Helen Peaker. Mrs. Multiris, the leading light in the social world of the small town, Mary Grattan, brings her distinguished friend, Mrs. Smearwiffle, of Boston, to speak on "Women's Rights." This part is particularly well taken by Blanche Corlette. Others of the cast are: Mrs. Killjoy, Violet Myirea; Mrs. Jass, Frances Donald; Mrs. Whim, the hostess, is Dolina McKinnon; Mrs. Galivant, Lucille Peaker; Mrs. Shy, Judith Wiles; Mrs. Catty, Angela Bianco.

A Senior Business Girls and the Y-Owencas heard an interesting talk recently by Mr. Don McIntosh, of the Foot Health Shop. Miss Marian Dobbin visited the two Thursday Night clubs, and described her recent trip to Honolulu, showing to the clubs her curios and pictures which she had collected while away.

The graduate girls of the household training class have been organized under the leadership of Mrs. Willrid Hartley, with Frances Tatham as president. This group, together with the Pirates and Versatiles, were interested in Miss Yvonne Love's illustrated talk on "Preparation and Variety of Salads."

The Outdoor Club have had several happy outings this Spring, and all the clubs are looking forward to the Summer programme which is being planned. Any girl in the city is invited to join in these outdoor activities.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

By Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

"Cincinnati, O.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson:

"A hand came up the other night in a local club that has threatened, in its repercussions, to tear the foundation out of the building. The club has split squarely into two factions, one bearing the proud device, 'finesse,' the other just as loudly shouting, 'go up with the ace.' We already have passed the stage of betting our shirts (even the chef has put down a small wager), and now are entering the secondary, or belligerent stage, wherein fist fights, instead of prosperity, are just around the corner. As the leading pacifist of the group, I have prevailed on the scrappier element to call a truce until the hand can be submitted to and analyzed by you.

"May I beseech you, in this tense hour, to give the matter your careful and urgent attention? Yours very truly, E. J. C."

This was the hand:

North, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable, each with part score of forty.

The bidding

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	1 ♥	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	4 ♣	4 ♠	Pass

Mr. E. J. C.'s letter further stated in a postscript:

"The bidding, whether good or bad, is not in question. The point to be decided is the declarer's proper play on the opening lead, by West, of the deuce of diamonds."

My answer was as follows:

First I should like to congratulate West on his opening lead. It was a model of bridge sagacity, both in the suit selected and the particular card calculated to deceive declarer.

Now, as to declarer's proper play, certain premises must be clearly established. The first is that East, for his aggressive vulnerable bidding must hold the heart ace and the club king. Furthermore, East cannot hold eight hearts because he would have rebid them several times before showing clubs. He cannot hold seven because that would leave West with only a singleton, and he certainly would have opened it. Therefore, South's king of hearts is not in danger.

If dummy's ace of diamonds is played, and it holds the trick, the contract is, of course, safe. But if it is ruffed, declarer still must lose a heart and a club.

If the queen of diamonds is played and it holds, all is well, of course. Now we come to the real crux. What if it loses to the king? And we find that no material loss will result. The ace always is good for that vital club discard. The same thing applies if East ruffs the queen of diamonds. In short, the one way for the contract to be defeated is to go up with the ace and have it ruffed.

I assume that that was what happened.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Question—Dealer held the following: ♠ — ♥ K Q 9 ♦ A K 10 4 ♣ A Q 10 9 3 2. What was his correct bid?

Answer—Since the hand has more losing tricks than it has honor tricks, one club is the correct bid.

ENGINEER WILL QUIT SERVICE

A. M. Richmond Resigning From Mines Department To Enter Business

Adding to growing retirements from the provincial service, the resignation of A. M. Richmond, resident mining engineer at Penticton, was confirmed by Hon. G. S. Pearson, yesterday. The vacancy will be filled in due course from a choice of several names for the position, the minister said. Mr. Richmond will leave on May 1, with two months' leave of absence.

Mr. Richmond entered the service of the British Columbia Mines Department in June, 1929, as assistant resident engineer at Victoria. He was engaged for a while on preparation of bulletins on non-metallic mining opportunities within the province, and upon other work. In February, 1935, he was made resident mining engineer for the Province at Penticton—a promotion.

Five weeks ago Mr. Richmond tendered his resignation to the Government, desiring to enter private practice. Formal announcement of the resignation was made yesterday, effective on June 30.

GIVE PAPERS ON OLD CHARACTERS

Members of Dickens Fellowship Here Provide Interesting Group Of Short Addresses

Victoria Dickens Fellowship had an interesting meeting on Monday night in the Women's Institute rooms, Fort Street, and some humorous papers were given by members on "Their Favorite Rascals" among the characters in Dickens books.

The papers were presented by the following: Harry Wood, Miss C. G. Fox, Mrs. H. Wood, Miss E. M. Pemberton, George H. Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Thompson.

C. C. Pemberton gave a paper on "Memoirs of Joseph Grimaldi," edited by Charles Dickens, showing how he came to edit the Memoirs and set out the life of that celebrated clown. Mr. Pemberton also read a number of extracts from other sources. The paper proved of exceptional interest to the members.

R. W. Corner, in a short address, gave an account of the celebration in London of the 100th year of the publication of "Pickwick Papers," which was held in the Old Hall, Lincoln's Inn, and in the same room where the famous Chancery trial was held.

Joan B. Kennedy, secretary, announced there would be another meeting in May and the out-of-doors meeting in June. H. L. Fensham, president of the Fellowship, presided.

THE PROOF OF THE Sauce IS IN THE EATING!

AND the sooner you put a few drops of this thick piquant sauce on your plate the quicker you'll know how good it is.

Not only does H.P. taste deliciously spicy by itself, but it has the happy faculty of bringing out hidden flavors in meats, fish, fowl, soups and stews, and making them more delicious. The difference a little H.P. can make to a dish of macaroni, baked beans, a poached egg, a salad or a sandwich is really immense. Put H.P. Sauce on today's grocery list.

DESCRIBES GREAT U.S. DAM PROJECT

Boulder Dam Outlined in Detail to Members of Kiwanis Club by S. L. Armstrong Here

The gigantic works project of the United States Government at Boulder Dam was described in detail by Samuel L. Armstrong, yesterday, at the Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Armstrong outlined the purpose of the dam as a project designed to control the flood waters of the Colorado River and assist in the irrigation of the Imperial Valley, highly productive vegetable and fruit centre of Southern California. To a lesser degree it would supply drinking water to Los Angeles, he said.

He declared the routine flow of the river at the point of the dam was about 22,000 second feet, while at flood times it was as high as 200,000 second feet. Soil erosion was tremendous, some 350 tons of silt being deposited at times, Mr. Armstrong said. Inside of a year the silt would cover the entire Saanich Peninsula and Victoria about one foot deep.

In 1930, he continued, power companies in Southern California, Nevada and Texas purchased the water power from the proposed dam, and the United States Government went ahead with the project. The site is in a rocky plain. Mr. Armstrong outlined the preliminary work, including the establishment of a railroad line, road and power line from Los Vegas to the dam site.

The tremendous size of the dam, its spillway basins, the methods employed to divert the stream, and the large number of men employed were detailed by Mr. Armstrong. He said about 4,700 men had been employed, on an average, each year for four years. The speaker declared the dam, and the aqueduct to Los Angeles, would be completed early in 1937.

Urges Victoria Advertise Its Beauty in East

Frank Keane, Washington, D.C., a member of the executive of Kiwanis International, told members of the Kiwanis Club at luncheon yesterday "Victoria should advertise more in the East. This is the most beautiful place on earth."

He pointed out to the clubmen that the Victoria unit of the Kiwanis International was well known and urged members to continue their community work. He paid tribute to the memory of the late King George V as "George the Good," and the late Rudyard Kipling.

There was no time than at present when the need of community work was needed so much, he said.

Clarence Johns presented Edward Mallek with the Service Club Bowling League Trophy, won by the Kiwanis team from the Gyros, and individual cups to A. C. Stickley, Jack McLennan, A. Ballantyne, William Dreaper, Edward Dickinson and Mr. Mallek.

With All My Heart

BY SARA CHRISTY

CHAPTER XLV

Selwyn Marsh attempted to frown when he became aware of Thora's speechless gaze at his changed appearance in dinner clothes. Instead, he smiled a trifle sheepishly.

"Well? Do I look as silly as I feel?"

"You . . . you look . . . nice." It was a stupid word to use, but Thora could find nothing better at the moment. "I hardly knew you," she added hastily.

"I don't wonder," he agreed miably. "I hardly know myself. Wilma insisted on my getting into harness tonight. Said the other fools were going to dress like head waiters, and, as long as I was to be on the programme . . . Does everything look all right?"

Since it would have been unthinkable to tell Selwyn Marsh that he had transformed himself into a very distinguished-looking and handsome gentleman, Thora Dahl contented herself by tipping her head critically to one side and remarking:

"All except your tie. It's crooked."

"I thought so. Can't do one of those bows to save my soul. Will you fix it?"

He stood with his chin raised while Thora patted and pulled the black bow into a perfect knot. It brought a sudden memory. How she had stood by this very window, looking into Selwyn Marsh's face as he removed that cinder from her eye. That was the first time she had seen him, and how long ago it seemed. And his hands had been so steady. Her fingers were trembling . . . a little.

"There." She stepped back and appraised her task. "That looks much better. I must go now. I will be late."

"You're not punching a time clock," he snapped. "Besides, Pat is going to run you over in the car."

"Oh, no . . . please. I'd rather walk. It isn't far."

"And I prefer not to have you cutting across lots and in anybody's back door. You'll drive around to the front. Go out on the porch and wait for Pat. I'll call him."

It was more than an hour later that Wilma entered the library to find her father relaxed in his chair, puffing thoughtfully on his pipe.

"Dad!" she exclaimed reproachfully. "You'll get your shirt crushed, sitting that way. And you have ashes on yourself. Stand up and let me dust you off."

He complied with a muttered protest.

"You're the handsomest thing I've seen in a long time," Wilma told him in a little burst of admiration, as she flicked his shirt bosom with her handkerchief. "You almost take my breath. Do you know that you don't look a day older than Sherm?"

"What do you want for that?"

"My bracelet, if you'll be good enough to dig it out. And the largest ring."

"Look here, Wilma. You're not going to wear that thing tonight, are you?"

"Of course I am. That's why I brought it out. I want to give your relatives an eyeful. Go on and get it, like a good boy."

"It's yours," Marsh admitted, "but I don't like the idea of your wearing it tonight. It's not that sort of an occasion and we don't have cops on every corner, out here, either."

"How silly! If you and Alec and Pat can't guard me over there and back, you're not much good. Let me have it."

"All right. Just head anybody off from coming in here for a minute. There's no use advertising where we keep it." He crossed to the fireplace and began fingering the moulding of one of the wooden wall panels. In a moment there was a dull clang and Marsh came back to the table with a small box in his hand.

"There you are," he remarked.

"Isn't it gorgeous?" Wilma asked, when she had slipped the blazing circlet over her slim hand and held it up for her father's admiration. "You don't know how I value it," she began impulsively, then paused when she saw the grim expression on Selwyn's face.

"You should," he answered shortly. "After all, it's . . . Hello."

Alec Babbas strolled into the room. He was dressed for dinner and smoking a cigarette thrust in an amber holder. Marsh looked at him critically. The bruise on the younger man's face was scarcely noticeable in the fading light. And he was not wearing the monocle, to his host's secret satisfaction.

"You look very fit," he observed.

"I'm all right," Babbas admitted.

"Look, Alec," Wilma interrupted, "how do you like it, when I'm dressed to match?"

"It's quite becoming."

"Dad was trying to make believe it wasn't safe for me to be going about with so much richness. I told him that you would protect me."

"I'll do my best. But I'm not sure that Mr. Marsh isn't right."

"You're both of you silly," Wilma excialmed with a pout.

Meanwhile, Thora was acquainting herself with her duties for the evening and following the fluttering Mrs. Steele about, from the kitchen to the dining-room. Back again.

"I do hope everything is all right," the hostess sighed, making one more inspection of the faultless table. "It is a small party," she confided to Thora, "but it's one of those affairs where everything has to be just so."

"Yes?" her assistant murmured politely.

"I'll say so. The Gordons, you know, are rich. They're accustomed to the best. And they're very critical. Between you and me, my dear, Frances Gordon is sweet . . . and a cat."

Thora raised her brows a trifle at this intimate revelation. It didn't sound much like Mr. Gordon's description of his mother. But Mrs. Steele was hurrying on.

"Mr. and Mrs. Pryor are about as bad. Miss Pryor . . . she's his sister . . . is worse. They're cousins of Selwyn. George Pryor isn't nearly as well off as Selwyn and it hurts them. They're very quick to find fault. That is one reason I had Sherm come along. He's a peacemaker when that bunch gets together. I do hope I haven't made any mistake in seating."

As nearly as Thora could tell, the arrangements were perfect. Thanks to Mrs. Steele's painstaking preparations, there would be very little for her to do, save keeping a check upon Jim's movements. That young man had been subjected to countless rehearsals and was standing by, clad in a stiffly starched linen jacket and owl-eyed with importance. Thora gave him a reassuring smile. Dusky Jim was all that stood between her and appearing before the dinner guests. If he should fail her!

The situation somehow appealed to her sense of humor. Her experience with formal dinners was very slight, and here she was now acting in a professional capacity. She was conscious of a sudden desire to see these people together, hear what they talked about. It was very evident that Selwyn Marsh was to have his seat at the head of the board. She would like to see him when he stood in his place and solemnly told these people that Wilma was engaged to marry Ali Babba. As if everyone in the vicinity of Brookville didn't know it. A queer custom.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

AN ANNOYING MOUTH AILMENT — VINCENT'S INFECTION

A common infection of the mouth that attacked all the armies engaged in the Great War is known as Vincent's infection. It attacks the mucous membrane of the gums and lining of the mouth, causing ulceration and decay (sloughing), some of the gum which covers the teeth being lost.

This layer of dead tissue is yellowish-white or greyish-white, may be easily wiped off, leaving a greatly inflamed surface which bleeds easily. The ulceration may occur in any part of the mouth and throat in the form of yellowish or greyish white patches, the margins of which stand out distinctly from the parts that are not inflamed.

The breath has a very bad odor, which is characteristic of Vincent's infection.

These symptoms come on suddenly and are often accompanied by a metallic taste, increased flow of saliva (the digestive juices of the mouth), swelling of the glands in the neck, a tired feeling, rise in temperature and mental depression.

If the patches happen to be on the tonsils or on one tonsil it may resemble diphtheria to some extent, but the patch in diphtheria is not so easily broken up, and the diphtheria symptoms are much more severe—high temperature, increased pulse rate, prostration.

Persons of all ages may be attacked by Vincent's infection (Vincent's Angina). Two different types of organisms always present, living and working together, are responsible for Vincent's infection.

Although this ailment seems simple enough, and the patient is not seriously ill, nevertheless "it should be remembered that in no other infectious disease have so many methods of treatment been suggested."

Some patients get better without any treatment whatever, others get results by thorough brushing of the teeth and the mechanical cleansing of the ulcerated surfaces.

Some physicians believe the symptoms are due to lack of vitamins and prescribe green vegetables, oranges and lemons.

Many mouth washes have been recommended, containing antiseptics to kill the organisms responsible for the destruction of the mouth tissue. Hydrogen peroxide diluted with equal parts of water has proved very effective, as are freshly prepared sodium perbolate solutions, both of which are recommended by Conrad F. Hellwege, D.D.S., Philadelphia. Both preparations clear away the grey or yellow membrane, remove the odor, and destroy the organisms causing the disease.

Muzz Patrick in Quick Knockout Over Mike White

Victoria Youngster Stops New York Heavyweight In First Round in One Minute and One Second —Fifth Straight Win in the United States—Father Sees Victory

NEW YORK, April 21 (CP).—That great knockerouter from Victoria, lambasting Murray Patrick, today ruled odds-on favorite to win the Catholic Youth Association heavyweight boxing championship.

The twenty-year-old hockey, track, basketball and lacrosse star last night scored his fifth straight triumph in United States rings by smashing Michael White, of New York, to the canvas in one minute and one second of the first round.

In the first round of the tournament White kayoed William Bliden, of New York, in the first round and appeared to possess enough ring experience and punching power to put Lester Patrick's young son to the acid test. White was outclassed, however, by the most promising Canadian heavyweight flatic hope to appear hereabouts in years.

HAMMERS OPPONENT

Patrick, captain and brilliant defenceman of New York Rovers, of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, hammered White to the ropes in the first thirty seconds, and as his opponent arose after a short count Patrick flattened him for good with a crushing straight right to the jaw.

Young Murray, holder of the Canadian amateur heavyweight title, may turn professional shortly if the Canadian authorities fail to issue him an invitation to compete in the Dominion Olympic trials, he said today.

HORSES RUN DEAD HEAT IN ENGLAND

Quashed and Jack Tar Reach Wire Together in Metropolitan Stakes

EPSOM DOWNS, England, April 21.—The Great Metropolitan Stakes, long-distance Spring handicap, resulted in a dead-heat today between Lord Stanley's Quashed and Lady Nuttall's Jack Tar.

Quashed, a four-year-old filly by Obliterate - Verdict, carried 130 pounds and started at 7 to 2. Jack Tar, a six-year-old brown gelding by Jackdaw-Ellel, carried 104 pounds and started at 100 to 8.

A. F. Davis' Corona-Corona ran third in the field of nineteen, three lengths back of the leading pair. Corona-Corona had an impost of 102 pounds and started at 5 to 1.

REPORTED SCRATCHED

Jack Tar was reported to have been scratched night, but later it was learned the horse would run Armour Bright did not start.

The Great Metropolitan, run over a distance of about two and one-quarter miles, is coupled with tomorrow's City and Suburban Stakes as a great Spring bubble.

Perryman rode Quashed and E. Smith was Jack Tar's jockey. Barber had the mount on Corona-Corona.

Quashed was favorite to win the handicap. The time of the winning pair was 4:7 4-5.

Patrimony finished fourth and Kept-On fifth.

Dominoes Being Treated Royally By Winnipeggers

Victoria Cagers Guest of Mayor McQueen at Banquet — Toilers Have Stronger Club Than Last Season—Start Today

By FRANK ELLIOTT

WINNIPEG, April 22.—Awakened by the rhythm of Johnny Johnson's snoring issuing from the adjoining room and rushed to breakfast, but most of the boys had forgotten their good resolutions of Friday evening regarding early rising and did not get up until lunch time. The good weather has finally left us. It turned cloudy and a little chilly today and it started snowing at 9 o'clock in the evening. The ice went out of the rivers on Saturday night, with a crew of men with dynamite keeping it moving. There were large pieces of ice floating down the Assiniboine today. Mr. Wilson, manager of the Toilers, took six of us out to his home for a dinner, while Vic Driver looked after the rest.

Learned a few details of the Toilers' club. It was organized by the late W. Allditt in 1910 and has held the Canadian championship three times, 1926, 1927 and again in 1932, and it was the last time they held the championship that the fatal airplane wreck brought tragedy into their ranks and forced them out of the play-offs, the same season that the Blue Ribbons first won the coveted trophy. Bruce Dodds, Ian Wooley and Lauder Phillips, who were in the crash, are still on the team, although Dodds is the only members who still is rated as a first-atringer.

NEWCOMERS

Curt Denneny, Bud Marquardt and Joe Peprich are newcomers to the team from North Dakota and the addition of Jack Neal, sensational eighteen-year-old local product, have made the blue-shirted cassada chasers an even choice to take the present champions in their coming series.

Tuesday, all down for breakfast on time and out for a walk. It is cold out today, probably below freezing, although the sun is shining once more. Attended a banquet given by the city of Winnipeg at noon. There seems to be a certain civic pride evident in all citizens of the 'Peg and they are also very hospitable and anxious that the visitors should think well of their city. The officials of the Toilers' club told of the splendid treatment they had received at the Coast last year. After hearing their comments, it makes one realize how important the hospitable treatment of visitors is, and the boost they can give a town after they have left.

The members of the Toilers who were at Victoria last year sound like a company of George I. Warrens. Maybe we can help Winnipeg a little in return. Mayor McQueen welcomed the boys, and asked that we send his regards to Mayor Leeming. Dr. Wertiner, mayor of Winnipeg Beach, and a former star lacrosse player from the East, was also a speaker. He advised the boys to stick with athletics of some kind all their lives, as nothing was so pitiful as once-great athletes going to seed through lack of exercise. Dave Nicol and Johnson answered for the Dominoes, and Nicol jokingly asked for Winnipeg's moral support when the Dominoes tackle Windsor. Off to the "Y" for a workout, in the afternoon and some of the boys off to see Belanger and Wenstob mix it up at the Amphitheatre, while the rest are guests of the local theatres. And to bed.

As all the boys are taking it easy for the big struggle tomorrow, Mottishaw and Kinnear are taking a riding from the other members because they went up on the stage last night at the vaudeville show to assist an escape artist, a second Houdini. They were the official representatives of the audience to see that the chains, strait-jackets, etc., were the genuine articles. Mottishaw says he expects to crash Broadway as he is one of the best stooges in show business. Attended the weekly Kiwanis luncheon at noon in company with some members of the Toilers. Met Bud Marquart, All-Canadian end in Rugby and star forward of this year's Toilers. He is a tall, wiry fellow and looks every inch the athlete.

Listened to a very interesting talk by Winnipeg's city solicitor. Lots of sunshine, but it still remains bitterly cold. Very unsual weather they say.

LOOKS OVER ARENA

Out to the amphitheatre to see the new floor that has been laid for the big series. It measures 69 feet x 50 and runs east and west, which is crosswise of the building. We were told that the ice is still under the boards, although the building can be heated and that should not bother the teams. The floor is at the entrance end of the building. The seating capacity of the building is 5,200 and, with the floor situated as it is, there will be approximately 2,000 good seats for the big game tomorrow night. The officials in charge of the gate expect a crowd of 1,500. There was a hockey game in the building on Saturday, a fight card on Monday night, and now a basketball game on Wednesday, Thursday and possibly Saturday. The boys held an hour's workout on the floor this evening, and were well satisfied. Most of them were cracking the bucket with regularity and were giving the rail birds quite a thrill.

Max Schmeling Arrives in U. S. For Louis Bout

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP).—Max Schmeling arrived today in the ner Bremen and announced he "might not knock out" Joe Louis when they meet here in the Yankee Stadium in a heavyweight bout on June 18, but that he "will defeat him on points."

Looking fit and weighing 192 pounds, the former world's champion acknowledged Louis is a "good fighter, but not unbeatable."

"His standup style is made to order for me," said the German. "It makes him easy to hit. The trouble with these fellows he's beaten is that everybody is afraid of him. Here's one fellow who won't be, and I'll throw plenty of punches at him."

GOLF FACTS

NOT THEORIES

By ALEX MORRISON

The backswing cannot be given too much attention. There are many reasons for this, most important of which is that the downswing never can be any better than the backswing.

You may be among those who have regarded the backswing simply as a fill-in before you take a whack at the ball. You may be the type of player who trys to take the club back with the left hand and then swings it down with the right hand. In any case you'll benefit by following the routine.

As I stated in last week's exercise covering the proper way to start the backswing, your arms and body should be moved away from the ball simultaneously. To do this you must keep your arms close to your body. So, in making your backswing you should stand as straight as possible and continue to keep your arms very close to your body.

Practice taking the club back without letting your arms get away from your body, and then you'll be ready to take up next week's exercise, covering the downswing.

Al Karasick to Return Saturday In Feature Bout

BACK on the Pacific Coast after a successful campaign in Eastern rings, Al Karasick, the "Russian Lion," will return to the Victoria battlefront on Saturday after an absence of four years, to headline the weekly grappling card at the Tillicum gymnasium. Karasick was signed yesterday by the local matchmaker for the eight ten-minute-round main event of an all - heavyweight programme. Veteran of many battles with the game's best squirmers, the "Russian Lion" is capable of taking care of himself in any kind of company.

Champion Angler Lands Big Fish

Champion fisherman of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association for the past two seasons, F. E. W. "Doc" Smith, 116 Medina Street, added further laurels to his already lengthy list recently, when he hooked the first "button" fish of the present season.

Fishing with J. P. Hall, 159 Cook Street, he landed a 29½-pound salmon after playing it for thirty minutes. He used a large abolone spoon with 350 feet of line out.

They also took in two steelhead and their boat limit of grilse. The big salmon and the steelhead were placed on display in the window of Roy Monteith's Tackle Shop, View Street.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT— . . . . . By Ripley

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Seven-Year-Old Lawyer—On December 14, 1897, Byron Gilbert, the seven-year-old son of Judge W. D. Gilbert, of Atchison, Kansas, successfully passed his bar examination before a college of Supreme Court Justices. Chief Justice Doster of Topeka plied the child with profound and perplexing questions on every phase of fundamental law, decisions and technique of law practice, which the lad answered with astonishing correctness. The child wonder, who said that he had been a lawyer from the age of five, was granted a certificate of admission to the bar, which admission constitutes a record for all time.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP).—Big Hank Leiber's single in the last half of the ninth today scored Jimmy Ripple, rookie pinch hitter, with the run that gave the Giants a 7-6 victory over the Phillies.

The Giants built up a five-run lead in the first seven innings with Al Smith pitching in great form, but in the eighth he walked two men, hit another, and gave up three hits and three runs before he was yanked in favor of young Harry Gumbert, who allowed another run before retiring the side.

The Phils tied the score at six-all in the first of the ninth when Ethan Allen singled, Whitehead booted Sulick's grounder, and Mickey Haslin singled to score Allen.

Terry sent Ripple into bat for Gumbert at the start of the ninth. He singled, went to second on Joe Moore's infield out and came home on Leiber's smash to centre.

Johnny Broaca, who was credited with his first victory of the season, went into the ninth with a five-run lead, but Lamar Newsome touched him for a single at the start of the inning and then he walked Malino and Finney, filling the bases.

Wally Moses then tripled and that was the end of Broaca. Next was Johnny Murphy. He walked Bob Johnson and was yanked. And then came Pat Malone, who was greeted by Puccinelli's single. With the tying run on third, he made Higgins foul out and Warstler ground to Crosetti.

UP-ISLAND XI TO APPEAR IN TITLE FIXTURE

Nanaimo Printers Will Battle Wednesday League All-Stars at Enclosure

With the Vancouver Island mid-week soccer championship at stake, Nanaimo Printers, leaders of the Up-Island Wednesday Football League, will make their Victoria debut this afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park, when they stack up against an all-star eleven from the local loop. Dave McMillan, veteran arbiter, will toot the whistle and get the boys into action at 2:30 o'clock.

The Up-Islanders are reported to be carrying a fast, young team, and one that should provide good competition for the Victoria All-Stars. The local squad, named by team managers and executive officers of the league, is well balanced and will, no doubt, give the visiting Nanaimo Printers plenty of stiff opposition.

ONLY GAME SET

The fixture, the first of its kind staged this season by the Wednesday Football League, is the only game carded today, and is expected to attract a large following of soccer fans to the enclosure.

The teams:

Nanaimo Printers—R. Thompson, N. Richardson, G. Robinson, R. McKnight, N. Wilson, T. Hutchinson, E. Carey, A. Green, P. Rowbottom, J. Gannon and G. Guinness. Reserves, Stalzenburg and Allman.

CARPET BOWLERS CONCLUDE PLAY

Britannia Branch Trundlers Enjoy Successful Season—Trophies Are Presented

Carpet bowlers of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion brought a successful season to a close recently at the club quarters, View Street, with the finals of the Cassidy Cup competition. The trophy was captured by R. Baldwin's rink, which triumphed over H. Pearson's squad with a 20-14 score.

Jack Cassidy, donor of the trophy, was introduced to the players by Percy P. Payne, first vice-president, and later presented the cup to the skip of the winning team, and individual cups to the members of the team.

R. Baldwin won the club singles, while W. Roberts and A. Goodman annexed the doubles title. In the Victoria Carpet Bowling League, Britannia had six teams entered. The Rustlers were the runners-up in the "B" Section league play, while Britannia Royals won the Halog Challenge Cup. Members and friends are asked to register for the informal Summer competitions.

EDMONTON GRADS WIN THE OPENER

EDMONTON, April 21 (AP).—Edmonton Grads defeated Tulsa Stenographers, 42-24, here tonight in the first game of a three-of-five series for the official North American women's title, and also the Underwood Trophy, emblematic of the inter-national championship.

The teams will meet again here Thursday and a third game will be played Saturday. The North American title, held by Grads since 1923, is only at stake once a year between the champions of the United States and Canada.

Checking the Tulsans closely as soon as the game got under way, the Grads got away to a flying start in the first quarter, and then, led by Noel MacDonald, one of the greatest girl basketball players in the world, they romped to a most decisive victory. MacDonald rang up a total of twenty points—scoring eight points on eight free throws allowed.

Securities Take Upward Turn at New York Mart

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP). — A feverish stock market struggled, somewhat successfully, today, to overcome further selling drives.

While there were plenty of declines at the finish, there were sufficient advances of fractions to 2 or more points to renew the hopes of bullish forces.

The Associated Press average of sixty stocks ended up .2 of a point at 61.5. Transfers totaled 2,032,490 shares against 1,771,140 Monday.

Shares closing around fractions to 3 points higher, included American Can at 125 1-4, Westinghouse at 117 1-8, Chrysler at 96 7-8, and International Harvester at 82 1-8.

There was little unity of action in today's bond trading, though price changes were fairly narrow on either side.

In the United States Treasury division, declines ranged from 1-32 to 5-32 of a point.

Southern Railway 4's sold off a point to 59 1-4. International Telephone issues closed higher, as did International Hydro-Electric's 6's.

Foreign issues showed a mixture of small gains and losses.

DOME DECLARES EXTRA DIVIDEND

TORONTO, April 21 (CP).—Directors of Dome Mines, Limited, at the annual meeting today, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share and a bonus of $2, duplicating last year's action.

Jules Bache, president, announced all reserves were 10,000 tons greater on April 1, 1936, than on December 31, 1935. He said there were 118,000 tons of proven five-pennyweight ore at the Sigma Mine, and because the grade is low it is planned to sink to 1,000 feet and open four more levels before dealing with a mill.

He added that although, on the face, it may appear the dividend was more than actually earned, this was not actually the case because of depreciation and exploration write-offs.

As investments were called or redeemed, new ones would be made, he said.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL PRODUCE MARKET

Wholesale row hummed with activity yesterday as one of the largest single shipments ever received in Victoria arrived from California and other sections. Some 2,000 cases of oranges were unloaded, with 3,000 more cases expected Friday. Since the dump duty, removed under the terms of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement, will again become effective on May 1, plus a 3 per cent sale tax, wholesalers were stocking in huge supplies. Oranges will advance from 5 to 7 cents per dozen. Meantime, the orange market was firm and advancing, the price jumping 15 cents per case, wholesale. Wholesalers anticipated tremendous sales in oranges during the next ten days.

In addition to the oranges, 700 stems of bananas were received, plus sixty tons of seasonable California vegetables. There were 300 cases of grapefruit in the shipment, with a large shipment of lemons due on Friday.

A shipment of Australian pears, now lying in Vancouver, will arrive here this week. Meantime, Yakima Anjous were holding the pear market at from 30 to 45 cents per dozen. The first shipment of Walla Walla asparagus arrived yesterday. The quoted price was 15 cents per pound.

Local rhubarb was caring for the Victoria demand yesterday, with the price down 1 cent per pound to 7 cents. Shipments of California strawberries, to sell at 25 cents per box, were being received daily. Victoria-grown asparagus will be delivered next week to sell at 15 and 20 cents per pound.

Daily shipments of locally-grown hothouse cucumbers marked at 10 to 20 cents apiece were being received. Lettuce prices were up slightly to 10 and 12 cents per head. The strike in San Francisco, holding up shipments, and the lateness of the new crop, were given as reasons for the increase.

Green peas were down to 13 cents per pound, and two pounds for 25 cents. Local hothouse tomatoes, as yet insufficient to care for the demand, were being received to sell retail at 30 cents per pound. Mexican tomatoes were quoted at 20 cents per pound.

Texas new potatoes were scheduled to arrive this week. No change in the egg or butter prices were recorded yesterday.

MONTREAL, April 21 (CP).—Bar gold in London off 4 cents at $34.95 an ounce in Canadian funds, 140s 9 1-2d in British funds. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $35.16 in Canadian funds.

Industrial Leaders Show Mixed Trend At Eastern Markets

International Nickel closed up 3-4 at 48. Hollinger eased 1-4.

Declines of 1-8 to 3-8 were boarded for St. Lawrence Corporation, St. Lawrence Paper preferred, Howard Smith and Dryden Paper.

TORONTO EXCHANGE

TORONTO, April 21 (CP). — Although the Toronto industrial share market recorded a moderate decline in today's operations, prices readily responded to any pick-up of buying, suggesting a limited supply of stocks overhanging.

Imperial dropped 3-8 to 22 1-8, while International Petroleum and British American were down 1-8 to 1-4 each, and McColl preferred slipped back a full point.

Brisk Foreign Demand Keeps Futures Firm at Winnipeg Grain Market

WINNIPEG, April 21 (CP).—Canadian wheat futures held steady on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Values closed 1-8 cent higher to unchanged, May at 82 1-4, July 83 1-8 and October 84 3-8 cents, as 1,250,000 bushels of Canada's chief commodity were sold for shipment abroad.

The brisk foreign business offset the unsettling influence of an irregular Chicago market.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS

THE TUTTS ... By Crawford Young

THE FAMILY ALBUM—SIDE-TRACKS By GLUYAS WILLIAMS

Jane Dixon Says:

HERE IS THE FIRST AND ONLY ARGUMENT IN FAVOR OF PARENTAL DISCIPLINE THAT I HAVE RECEIVED FROM A MEMBER OF THE YOUNGER GENERATION

There are two sides to every question, and here's a youngling who, believe it or not, is taking up for the parents in the ever-present argument. Do mother and father know best.

My youngling is twenty and she is in earnest.

Hurrah for her! She's produced the first and the only argument in favor of parental discipline that has come across my desk from her generation.

Dear Jane Dixon: I read your advice to young people, and I like it. But tell me this, Miss Dixon, why do all young people write you saying: My parents won't let me do this and they won't let me do that? Why do they blame their parents for about everything that happens?

Do these young people ever stop to think that maybe they have stayed out too late for their own welfare or gone places they should not have gone with someone who will do them no good. You'd think daughters and sons are omnipotent, that they can't do wrong. Only parents make mistakes.

May I tell you my own experience? ...

LIVES WITH GRANDPARENTS

I'm an orphan, and have lived with my grandparents since the death of my parents when I was a little child. My grandparents are just like mother and father to me. We're real pals. When I want to go some place, do something, have a party, go to a party, I talk it over with them. They're older. They have the knowledge of experience. I abide by their decision. If I stay home I read or sew, or we have music together.

I have dates twice a week with a fine young man. Sometimes we go to shows. Sometimes we stay home and just have a nice homey evening.

At 10 or 10:30 my sweetheart says good night. I'm still in school and that's late enough for a student to stay up, isn't it?

Here's a typical Sunday evening for us: It happened last Sunday. My sweetheart called, took me for a drive. We came home and grandmother helped me set the table for supper. She brought out the lace tablecloth and the silver cream pitcher and sugar bowl. We had sandwiches—delicious ones—hot coffee and home-made pie. She insisted on my sweetheart and I eating first so we could go to the early show, and grandfather and she could take their time about supper.

My grandparents do not worry about where I go or what I do so long as they know I am in good company and that I confide in them.

SHE GIVES GOOD ADVICE

Sometimes I think grandparents can raise children better than real parents. They're close enough, but not too close. Mine are sixty-eight and sixty-nine, and they're "young."

My plea to young people is: Listen to your parents, confide in them, reason out your problems with them. Make pals of mother and dad. They should be your best friends.—Peggy.

Answer: You've given splendid advice, Peggy. You've held to the ideal which is what youth should do.

But being so young, you've taken your own case as a measure of all youth's experience, which is, of course, a fallacy of reasoning.

PROBLEMS OF HUMAN JUSTICE

In ninety-five cases out of a possible hundred mother and father are right. But please take my word for it that three cases seldom come to this court for consideration, as is proven by the fact that yours is the very first of its kind to be presented.

What would you think, what would you do if suddenly for no given or known reason your grandparents should forbid your sweetheart's coming to their home, should order you never to see him again under penalty of drastic punishment, deprivation of your rights, or even physical punishment?

What would you do if you never were allowed to attend a party, much less give one; never allowed to go to a show, to take a drive, to invite a young man into your home? Suppose you had to sneak all your pleasures, to steal all your friendships and lie about them in order to protect them?

Those, Peggy, are the young people I write about—the ones with problems of human justice to solve. You have no problem. You're a very fortunate and a very appreciative young woman, and I don't know when I've wanted to meet folks as much as I do want to meet your grandparents. They're priceless.

Now do you understand why I appear to pick on parents?.

Try out many lines of building foods—namely: Our coarse wholewheat bread, our Roman meal bread, our Scotch wholemeal bread, our rye bread, our Hovis bread, our unsweetened bran muffins and others. News of Mines
(Mara, Bate & Co., Ltd.)

Pickle Crow produced $137,202 in gold bullion during March. This constitutes a new high record and compares with a previous high of $132,684 set in February.

• • •

Siscoe Gold—Five ore developments have been experienced recently at the Siscoe Gold Mine in Quebec. The important "E" zone has been intersected in drilling at the tenth level to show a width of eleven feet, whereas the usual ore width on upper levels is 2.5 feet. The core showed a lot of coarse visible gold, so the section will undoubtedly run very high grade. The newly-found Stee vein in the Kewatin greenstone area is an extremely important development, as it opens up brand new ore possibilities over a wide section. Three veins have now been located in drilling the greenstones 1,200 feet east in "A" Section. One of them returned an $89 per ton assay. A big tonnage of medium grade ore has been developed in the hanging wall of the main vein on the first three levels. Normal exploration continues in the mainland area with no particular new ore yet.

• • •

McWatters Gold—A deep drill hole at McWatters Gold Mine in Quebec has intersected fine ore just below the 400-foot level north of all previous disappointing drifting at that horizon. The hole was drilled 60 degrees south and at twenty-nine-foot depth 2.75 feet of core assayed .46 ounce, or $16.10 per ton. At 33.8-foot depth 3.8 feet of core assayed .73 ounce, or $25.55 per ton. The core section from twenty-nine to 37.6 feet would average $16.45 for 8.6 feet. The sludge from thirty to forty feet ran 1.63 ounces, or $57 per ton. Two other drill holes in the immediate vicinity of this good hole, however, failed to intersect any ore.

• • •

Hard Rock Gold now shows 400 feet ore. Bottom level big improvement; ore is twenty-five feet wide at the west end. It is possible another shaft may be later sunk in the Porphyry Hill area, in order to properly explore the excellent ore chances there. Recent drilling has returned some good intersections.

• • •

Greene Stabell—Drifting on the 400-foot level from the new shaft at the Greene Stabell Mine in Quebec has opened up ninety feet of ore averaging 1.5 feet in width and $19.26 per ton in grade.

• • •

McLeod-Cockshutt has extended its new ore shoot also another 100 feet west, with an excellent intersection in the fourth diamond drill hole. The latest hole intersected $23.17 across eight feet at an incline depth of 125 feet. The series of four drill holes near the east boundary with the Hard Rock Mine in the Little Long Lac district of Ontario now indicates an ore length between 300 and 400 feet, with excellent grade and width in each hole.

• • •

San Antonio—Winnipeg office advises San Antonio have declared a seven-cent dividend, payable April 30, record April 23.

• • •

Argosy Gold—Drifting on the No. 2 vein at Argosy Gold Mines is reported to have been carried for a length of forty-three feet in high-grade ore on the new fifth level. This establishes the continuity of the main orebody from surface to the present bottom, 500 feet, a slope distance of approximately 800 feet, of which 320 feet has been opened since resumption of work last June. Drifting south on No. 3 vein on the 300-foot horizon is also stated to be attended with favorable ore results.

• • •

Minto—The high-grade orebody in the Minto bottom tunnel has now been opened for a length of 236 feet and the last face assayed 1.75 ounces gold across better than five feet, according to A. G. Larson, consulting engineer, and director of the company. The drift face is now close to the point at which a shaft will go down to permit opening new levels on the ore to prove vertical continuation of what has become one of the most interesting orebodies ever opened in British Columbia. At the shaft site a raise will be put through to the mill level or main tunnel eighty-five feet above and a hoist will be placed there capable of permitting shaft sinking to at least 500 feet below the bottom level.

• • •

Pacific Eastern—Underground exploration of section of property adjacent to Pioneer has recently entered an area showing more favorable geological conditions. The stage has been reached when anything may happen. Home Oil is the chief shareholder.

• • •

McVittie-Graham—Production at the Veraguas Mines, in which McVittie-Graham Mines holds a 56 per cent interest, for the month of March exceeded $40,000, bringing output for the first quarter of 1936 to approximately $142,000.

• • •

Big Missouri—Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company has purchased for its Big Missouri Mine the adjacent McDonald Group of claims lying to the south and west of Big Missouri, according to reports from Stewart. The claims are described as being well placed not only for a possible mill site for Big Missouri, but to afford an opportunity to drive a new depth cross-cut to open Big Missouri by adit tunnel at a considerably lower elevation.

• • •

Bralorne—Study of the Bralorne annual report reveals some of the following interesting facts: 1, Bralorne has three years and four months ore reserves for its 475-ton mill; 2, heads and earnings are likely to go up substantially when, in a few days, the raise from the Empire cross-cut is driven through to the Ida May No. 6 level, permitting economical transportation of more Bradian ore to the mill; 3, the cross-cut on the fourteenth level will be in the King and "C" veins in the King Mine section and it will shortly be known whether or not there has been any improvement in the King and "C" veins below the lean eleventh and twelfth levels.

TO HOLD ANNUAL DINNER THURSDAY

Royal Society of St. George Prepares Programme for Banquet At Spencer's Limited

All arrangements have now been completed for the annual banquet of the Royal Society of St. George on St. George's Day in Spencer's dining-room, commencing at 7 p.m. Every effort has been made by the committee to insure the evening being a memorable one.

Tribute will be paid to the memory of the late King, for so many years the patron of the society, and the Last Post will be played by the buglers of the Sea Cadets Corps. The programme will be as varied as it is entertaining, and will include a real Punch and Judy show. Special care and attention is being paid to decorations, and the menu is chosen with due regard to all the traditions of an English table.

During the evening a special message from His Majesty the King will be delivered by the president. Tickets are obtainable from Fletcher Bros., Litchfield's, or Spencer's dining-rooms. Members and others desiring to attend the banquet are advised to purchase their tickets early as they are going rapidly, and owing to seating capacity there are only a limited number available.

CHAMPS FOR DODGERS

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP). — The Dodgers have two minor league batting champions of 1935 on their 1936 roster—Oscar Eckhardt, the husky Texan who led Pacific Coast League sluggers with a .399 average, and John Cooney, pace-setter in the American Association who batted .371 for Indianapolis.

ENTRIES CLOSE LATE THURSDAY

Spring Flower Show at Willows Will Be Held Friday And Saturday

W. H. Warren, secretary of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Association, said last night that entries for the annual Spring flower festival, to be held in the Main Building of the Willows Exhibition Grounds on Friday and Saturday, will not close until Thursday midnight.

So many entries from Up-Island sections have been promised in the past day or two that officials thought it advisable to extend the entrance time, in order that no one will be disappointed. Meantime, two further large commercial displays have been promised to swell the existing list of promised commercial exhibits.

J. B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture, will open the show on Friday at 3 p.m. Doors for the festival will be opened from 1:30 p.m. until 10 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The following gardens, admission to which is by "April Flower Festival" badges, procurable from any florist, will be open today: Government House; Miss K. Agnew, 1322 Rockland Avenue; Mrs. J. W. Benning, Jr., 1377 Rockland Avenue; Senator G. H. Barnard, 1462 Rockland Avenue; A. C. Burdick, 1595 Rockland Avenue; D. J. Angus, 1617 Rockland Avenue; W. Hobart Molson, 1663 Rockland Avenue, and Charles Williams, 1765 Rockland Avenue.

GIVES OUTLINE OF TECHNOCRACY

W. E. Walter, Vancouver, Regional Director, Addresses Student Gathering Here

"The North American continent, the richest area in the world in terms of real wealth, is the most suitable for Technocracy. It has the variations of climate, the commodities, eighty per cent of the people speak the English language and possesses 60 per cent of world technicians," declared W. E. Walter, director of section 1, regional division 12349 of Technocracy, Inc., with headquarters in Vancouver, at a public meeting in the lounge of the Dominion Hotel here Monday night.

Mr. Walter contended, however, that Technocracy could not be instituted politically, or financially. "It must be functional," he stated, and proceeded to give a review of the broad aspects of the new movement. The social objectivea of Technocracy advocated, among other things, "a technological social control involving the mechanization of industry to the utmost limits and guarantees economic security to all with a minimum of working hours. Technocracy is convinced that the day of basing our social operations on a method of valuation has passed, and that it is of vital importance that we recognize the arrival in the social field of physical science with its methods of quantitative determination, i.e., a metrical technique of distribution control."

DOLEFUL PICTURE

Mr. Walter painted a doleful picture of the immediate future, due, he said, to the ultimate breakdown of the price system. He visioned a complete collapse of industry and the means of distribution of the common necessities of life, which, in turn, would lead to a return of "rugged individualism" and the barbaric state. He predicted a complete wiping out of humanity," with the exception of a few Siwashes and Eskimos, who have learned enough to look after themselves." After the chaos, he stated, there would be a stagnant period and "possibly in a few hundred years the new generations would be able to set up some form of democracy."

The next few months, Mr. Walter said, would indicate many things to the economic world, but the final collapse of the present price system would not likely come until 1945.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Victoria section, and following Mr. Walter's address, there was a question period.

MOOSE OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

W. A. Kettle Assumes Duties as Dictator of Victoria Lodge, No. 1390

With colorful ceremony, the following officers, who will guide the destiny of Victoria Lodge No. 1390, L.O.O.M., were duly installed recently at the Knights of Pythias Hall, Broad Street: Dictator, W. A. Kettle; past dictator, J. G. Johnstone; vice-dictator, S. Hunt; prelate, Frank H. Humphreys; treasurer, D. M. McAulay; sergeant-at-arms, Wilbert Fawcett; inner guard, Dennis Hoare; outer guard, E. Monk, P.D.

G. T. Allan and J. Pearce, grand installing officers, were ably assisted by the drill team of the Victoria Chapter, No. 25, under the direction of the captain, Mrs. A. Hatcher.

This ceremony, open to the public for the first time, was witnessed by a large gathering of friends.

A delegation from Nanaimo included Bro. Alderman J. Hindmarch and Bro. Alderman George Muir, P.D. Bro. Moore and others brought felicitations from Lodge No. 1052, and gave brief addresses.

During the evening, Bro. Hedley, of Nanaimo, played several enjoyable numbers on the English concertina. The balance of the evening was given over to refreshments and good fellowship.

GEROUX GIVEN TERM IN JAIL

Montreal Barber Sentenced By Judge P. S. Lampman In County Court

When Louis Geroux appeared before Judge P. S. Lampman in the County Court yesterday to answer to a charge of having had in his possession counterfeit coins he elected speedy trial and after conviction was sentenced to eight months in jail.

Henry C. Hall, K.C., who appeared for the Crown, said that he did not know of any record of the accused, except there was a suggestion he had been guilty of passing bad cheques in Montreal.

The accused thereupon related briefly his career in late years. He acknowledged a previous offence, but explained that this was due to circumstances connected with his wife's illness. He had a barber shop in Montreal and was married. He sold the shop, but the buyer paid him with promissory notes, which turned out worthless. The wife was obliged to go to the hospital, and with no other means of obtaining the money, he used a bad cheque.

NO QUARREL WITH WIFE

He and his wife had separated for a time because he could not support her. It was their hope to get together again if he could find means for supporting her. There was no quarrel between them, he said.

He came West intending to do some prospecting. He intended to go into business as a barber, but when he got to British Columbia, he found he would have to wait three months and take an examination under the Barbers' Act. He had seen Mr. McInnes, the C.C.F. member, whom he had met in Montreal. He had come on to Victoria and attempted to do some work as a barber, but was stopped by the association, he stated.

He had then attempted to secure work in outlying districts where the act did not operate and obtained some work, but had a hard time to make anything.

He said he met a man whom he had known in Vancouver and he gave him $15 worth of the coins for $5.

Judge Lampman asked if the accused was connected with the passing of spurious coins found about Victoria.

Mr. Hall said he did not know. The coins passed by the accused were very coarse in formation. He did not think the accused was operating in a large way.

The court pointed out the seriousness of the offence and sentenced the accused to an eight-month term.

What Today Means

"TAURUS"

If April 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and from 9:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Try to be of service this day, if you wish to enjoy a sense of satisfaction. Triflers are likely to find this a very unauspicious day, for energetic forces probably will prevail causing busy men and women to show little consideration to those inclined to shirk. Impatience is apt to be manifested by people engaged in mercantile pursuits, if kept waiting, so it will pay those engaged in commercial lines to keep right alert. Be careful that money does not exercise a pernicious influence over you this day, for it can cause needless quarrels, ill will, greed, and the severance of friendships. Quick tongues will be a source of unhappiness, so the wise will keep their temper under control. Uncouth behavior is apt to be a disturbing factor in social contacts, so try to ignore it if you should unfortunately encounter a boor socially. Married and engaged couples and those fortunate enough to be truly in love, ought to have little trouble in getting any reasonable request granted this day, if they go about it tactfully.

If a woman and April 22 is your birthday, you have probably a very happy disposition, with a love for adventure. Very discerning, you may also be very critical, especially in matters pertaining to music, the drama or literature. You perhaps display a great deal of skill in arranging things artistically. Anything of a disorderly nature perhaps has an irritating effect upon you. You may be prone to worry too much over little things, and not enough about important matters that might have a direct bearing on your own advancement. As a musician, actress, singer, interior decorator, illustrator, writer or broker you possibly can achieve results that ought to lead to financial independence. Being domestically inclined, you are likely to find married life ideal.

The child born on April 22 by the time it arrives at its teens probably will give evidence of being decidedly musical. This talent should be developed. It ought to have very high ideals, as well as a keen sense of what constitutes right and wrong.

If a man and April 22 is your natal day, you are probably gifted with skillful hands, a mechanical or very artistic brain, and the ability to do things well. As a landscape architect, painter, builder, actor, writer, doctor, lawyer or salesman you have an excellent chance to win laurels.

OFFER "REQUIEM" IN CITY TONIGHT

Stanley F. Bulley Will Conduct Brahms' Work at Christ Church Cathedral

Great interest has been aroused in the performance of Brahms' "Requiem," which is to take place this evening at Christ Church Cathedral under the direction of Stanley Bulley, A.R.C.O., L.R.A.M., whose courage in breaking away from earlier traditions when presenting the two last annual performances of Handel's "Messiah" won for him such enthusiastic and favorable comments as a conductor.

The performance of the "Requiem" has been well advertised in Duncan and other Up-Island centres, and there is every indication of a large attendance at the cathedral tonight. The work will be performed by the Victoria Choral Union and an orchestra composed of the best amateur talent in the city, augmented by professionals in the woodwind, brass, timpany and other instruments.

The solos have been intrusted to Miss Dorothy Parsons, who gave such a fine interpretation of the soprano solos in the "Messiah" last December, and Pierre Timp, baritone. Richard Eaton will supplement the work of the choir and orchestra at the organ.

ENDORSE BETTER DEAL PRINCIPLE

Native Sons of British Columbia Set Up Committee to Further Study Proposals

At a well-attended meeting of Post No. 1, Native Sons of British Columbia, held Monday night, the principle of a better deal for Vancouver Island was fully endorsed and a committee was named, under the chairmanship of Frank Higgins, K.C., to further the proposals, outlined by Mr. Higgins in an address.

The meeting was most encouraging to the officers of the post because of the large number of old members who attended and again became members of the post after an absence of many years. Among those present were W. M. Halliday, an honorary life member, and George Hirst, of Nanaimo.

It was announced that the May meeting would take the form of a reunion and potlach, and it was hoped that the original officers would be present to put on the initiation ceremonies.

Three candidates were balloted on and duly elected to membership. After the business session, the members enjoyed a musical programme by Frank Lavery, Frank Lavery, Jr., and C. E. Green, followed by refreshments.

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

OUTPUT

"It is the output," wrote Dowden of Southey's works over half a century ago, "of a large and vigorous mind."

While there is apparently nothing unusual about this usage of "output," the fact is that in the sense indicated it was one of the earliest appearances of the word.

Hitherto, or up to around that period, "output" was used technically, in connection with the act or fact of production of iron works, coal mines, metal factories and the like whose product was admeasured quantitatively rather than otherwise.

It was not till long after that this attitude was carried over into the realm of industry or exertion that was mental, in which view the word does not appear in general dictionaries till after 1880.

Today, we speak of the output of short stories, automobiles, household appliances and poems. They are all given to the world, the spawn of mass effort, and that is that.

COLUMBIA TO PRESENT UNUSUAL PICTURE HERE

The Saturday Evening Post recently devoted considerable space to the life story of John Lee, "The Man They Could Not Hang," and Liberty ran an eight-page story last year, in fact, hardly a paper in the whole world which has not commented on this remarkable case.

Now the story has been made into a 100 per cent talkie, and will be the attraction at the Columbia Theatre next week-end.

CAPITOL THEATRE "Rose Marie," one of the most popular operas of all times, is now appearing on the screen of the Capitol Theatre. Beautiful Jeanette MacDonald, who has appeared in many recent musical hits, is seen in the leading role. Nelson Eddy, another outstanding singer, is cast opposite Miss MacDonald.

DOMINION THEATRE The story of one woman standing alone against a legion of desperate and vengeful convicts provides the drama in the GB production, "King of the Damned," the latest vehicle for the dramatic talents of Conrad Veidt, now at the Dominion Theatre. Helen Vinson is featured at the head of a cast which includes Noah Beery, Cecil Ramage, C. M. Hallard, Raymond Lovell and others. Walter Forde directed.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Although Cecil B. DeMille permitted the chefs in "The Crusades," now at the Playhouse Theatre, to wear the same type of hat that the master of the kitchen wears today, the director has made no error. Research by Harold Lamb, world famed authority on the historical period of the picture, discloses that this type of headgear has come down unchanged from the middle ages.

COLUMBIA THEATRE Irving Pichel, prominent screen player, who has alternated between acting and directing, was selected by Cecil B. DeMille for the role of Apollodorus in his newest Paramount picture, "Cleopatra," which is now at the Columbia Theatre. The featured cast includes Claudette Colbert, Warren William, Henry Wilcoxon, Ian Keith, Joseph Schildkraut, Gertrude Michael and Claudia Dell.

GYRO CLUB SHOW TO BE NOVEL OFFERING

The exact fashion in which a Jack Benny broadcast or a "First Nighter" programme goes on the air will be seen when the Gyro Club presents its production, "The Big Broadcast," at the Empire Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 30, May 1 and 2, under the direction of Mabelle C. Slick, of radio station WLS, Chicago.

A comedy production, arranged in dramatized form dealing with the adventures of "Little Nell," the hero and the villian, will be presented. The man in charge of sound effects will be close to the microphone with his equipment, and for the first time locally, the amusing effect of seeing the sound effects being broadcast at the same time the play is being presented will be felt.

A chorus of sixty voices will serve as a background for the varied and interesting programme of music, both concert and popular, which will be given. Novelty acts, including a "Stars of the Future" programme, will be an important part of the show.

Empire—"Tons of Money."

On the Screen

Little Stories for Bedtime

Buster Bear Plays a Trick

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Buster Bear and Jumper the Hare had their heads together. This doesn't mean that they had really touched heads. Oh, my, no! No, indeed. Jumper is too wise to get so close to Buster Bear as that. It means that they had made plans together. If Reddy Fox had known about those plans Reddy would certainly have kept away from that part of the Green Forest. But he didn't know about them, and he didn't keep away from that part of the Green Forest.

You see, it was there that Jumper the Hare spent most of his time, and so it was there that Reddy was spending most of his time now, for he was bound he would catch Jumper to pay him for making him the laughing stock of all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green meadows. At first Reddy had been afraid, very much afraid, that he might meet Buster Bear there. He had kept his eyes wide open for Buster, for, if the truth be known, he was as much afraid of Buster as Jumper was of him. But as day after day he saw nothing of Buster he grew careless. He made up his mind that Buster had gone back to the Great Woods from which he had come, and he thought of nothing but catching Jumper the Hare.

So Reddy, because he is very smart and sly, spent a great deal of time looking for the places where Jumper made his bed and for the places where he ate. Then he would hide near one of these and wait patiently for Jumper to come. But somehow Jumper always went to a place where Reddy was not hiding. The truth is, Jumper knew perfectly what Reddy was doing, and so he never went twice to the same place. That is, he never went twice very near together. If he took a nap under a big hemlock branch and then went out to get a bite to eat, he would finish his nap under another tree instead of going back to the first one. So, though Reddy often found places Jumper had just left and hid beside them patiently for Jumper to come back, it never was of the least bit of use.

Softly, ever so softly, Reddy Fox tiptoed forward

But after Jumper and Buster Bear had had their heads together Jumper seemed to grow careless. Yes, sir, that is the way it seemed. Reddy Fox noticed it right away and grinned wickedly. Three times he saw Jumper dozing just in front of a great fallen tree. Then for a fourth time he saw Jumper sit in the same place. By and by Jumper began to nod. Then his eyes closed in the sleepiest way. Reddy grinned and licked his chops. Jumper's eyes opened, closed again, opened once more, then closed and remained closed. Reddy watched a long time before he stirred, but there was no sign from Jumper the Hare. He certainly looked to be fast, very fast, asleep.

Softly, ever so softly, Reddy Fox tiptoed forward. Jumper did not move. A few steps nearer, and still Jumper seemed fast asleep. Reddy stopped long enough to grin, a wicked, hungry grin. This time he would catch Jumper and then he would see if the other people would laugh at and make fun of him any more. Softly, softly, very, very softly he stole forward until with one great jump he would be able to land right on poor Jumper. Very, very carefully Reddy fixed his hind legs to make the spring, and then—well—then he landed right exactly where Jumper had been, but wasn't. You see, Jumper had been just pretending to be asleep, and when Reddy had jumped, he had jumped, too.

Now, Jumper had jumped right over the old tree trunk and Reddy sprang after him. But Reddy is not quite so good a jumper as Jumper the Hare, and while Jumper went clear over the fallen tree, Reddy landed on top of it, meaning to jump on the other side. But he didn't. No, sir, he didn't. Instead he fell off backward with a scream of fright. What was the trouble? Why, Buster Bear had been lying down on the other side of that old tree, and when Jumper leaped over it Buster knew that Reddy was close at hand, and so he jumped up with a dreadful growl. Just as he had done the first time he saw Buster Bear, Reddy put his tail between his legs and started for home as fast as he could go.

"Ha, ha, ha!" shouted Buster Bear.

"Ho, ho, ho!" shouted Jumper the Hare.

"Hee, hee, hee!" tittered Saminy Jay, who had happened along just in time to see the fun.
